Bond Refinancing Plan Offered As Park Solution

PAUL WITMER
URGES NEW PROPOSAL

Ex-Mayor Says Four Parks Can Be Made To Pay Own Way

By ROCH BRADSHAW

"Let's have four parks instead of one—and make them pay for themselves."

Such was the suggestion of Paul Witmer, former mayor of Santa Ana, when interviewed today on the subject of parks. And he has a bond refinancing plan for carrying out his idea, too.

The city council has been sounding out public opinion on the question of exercising its option on a 20-acre park site at Washington and Flower streets. This option has just been extended.

In voicing his views on the subject, Mr. Witmer suggested three other 20-acre parks, so there would be one for the south, east, west and north sides of the city. Listen to the former mayor as he explains his idea:

"My suggestion for making the parks pay for themselves is based on two moves. The first is the refinancing of part of the city's bonded indebtedness to save on interest payments. The second is to operate the park sites as farms, with the city collecting an income of about $15,000 a year, until the people are ready to develop the properties as parks.

"The last legislature passed acts designed to enable cities to refinance bonds which are redeemable. Santa Ana has $155,000 of delinquent 1915 bonds of special assessment districts which could be refinanced.

The present interest rates of 6 per cent could be cut down by issuing new bonds to replace these, at 3 or 3½ per cent. There would be no difficulty in selling these bonds, for a recent issue of Santa Ana 3½ per cent bonds is selling at a premium. In this way, the

Meet the County
Reporters

Continuing a series of introductions of correspondents who furnish news of county communities, The Journal today introduces Mrs. Anne Van Steenberg, who "covers" Midway City, Westminster, Brea, Orangeview, Springdale, Talcott, Wintersburg and surrounding territory.

Mrs. Van Steenberg lives at 200 Harper street, Midway City. She is active in club work there, being chairman of the board of trustees of the Woman's club. She also is librarian at the Midway City branch of the county library.

She has been interested in library work for several years, having operated book shops and

VILLAGE FACES STARVATION

PORT FRANKS, Ont., Jan. 24. (P)—Huge snowdrifts have isolated this tiny western Ontario village and today the threat of hunger and starvation hung over its 60 inhabitants.

The little hamlet, 45 miles northeast of Sarnia, on Lake Huron, has been cut off from rail and truck communication with the outside world since Monday. Food supplies were exhausted last night and a call for aid was sent to Toronto.

FARM RULING AGREED ON

Senate Group Draws Up Revised Substitute To Replace AAA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (P)—A senate agriculture sub-committee of five Democrats today unanimously agreed on a revised farm bill to replace the AAA, but members were bound to secrecy on its details for the time being.

This action was announced shortly after President Roosevelt set making agriculture "as productive as it was 100 years ago" as the New Deal's goal and expressed a hope it could be done within the constitution.

Secretary Wallace, who dropped in on the group as it went over amendments drafted overnight, came out smiling and told reporters:

"Everybody's happy."

He added that this meant the five members of the sub-committee, himself and Chester C. Davis, farm administrator. Davis appeared before the group after first undergoing examination before the full house agriculture committee.

Chairman Smith (D., S. C.), of the senate sub-committee, who yesterday revolted against the original draft and stated flatly he would not support a new bill until it conforms to the constitution, made this brief announcement:

"We have agreed upon a bill and until the chairman can confer with the chairman of the house committee, no statement will be given."

Wallace earlier told newsmen: "The second conservation thing is fundamental and important."

"In fact," he added, "you can say that is the principal thing presented before the committee."

SEE PEACE FOR DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (P)—Signs of compromise were seen today in the controversy over selection of the California delegation to the Democratic national convention.

While State Chairman Culbert L. Olson was paying his respects at the White House, forces seeking harmony in the ranks of California's democracy pictured J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, as a prospective harmonizer of differences between Olson, Epic leader, and Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

Friends of Olson were known to have asked O'Connor to intervene in an effort to unite the two party chieftains on the question of a convention slate.

Shipping Interests Will Order Lockout, Says Militant Leader

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (P)—Threat of a coastwise lockout palled Pacific Coast waterfronts today.

Harry Bridges, militant leader of the so-called left wing Maritime Federation of the Pacific, said shipping interests will issue the closing order "some time today, tomorrow or Monday."

"It is a nationwide conspiracy of waterfront employers, shippers and allied financial interests," he said, "to wipe out the maritime unions of the Pacific Coast."

Appeal to President

The maritime federation, under the signatures of Bridges and Mervyn Rathbone, secretary of the San Francisco Bay district council, appealed to President Roosevelt, Secretary of Labor Perkins and other officials for a congressional investigation.

Unless the government intervenes, said the plea, "there will be launched on the Pacific Coast a struggle which will inevitably achieve the proportions of civil war."

Thomas G. Plant, president of the San Francisco Waterfront Employers' Association, said "No lockout is contemplated, but employers must insist that all maritime and longshoremen unions scrupulously observe their contracts with us if we are to continue relations with them."

Move Significant

Bridges said the decision to call the lockout came after a long series of conferences of shipping interests. He declared it was "significant" that the reported move coincides with asserted plans of what he calls "professional union executives" in the East and Gulf to form "company controlled" federations.

"They (shipping interests) may get away with it in those places where they'll never break the Pacific federation," he asserted.

The lockout move, he said, will start first with a series of paid newspaper advertisements stating intentions of the employers and arguments in support of their actions.

AAA PAYMENTS FUND PASSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (P)—The $58,000,000 deficiency appropriations bill carrying $12,000,000 for the social security board was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

It carried also, as a rider, $296,185,000 for paying benefits to farmers under contracts made under AAA prior to the supreme court's invalidating decision, Jan. 6.

TRIAL OF PLAY
GOES TO JURY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (P)—A jury of 11 housewives and one man retired shortly before noon today to determine whether "Ladies by Request" was an indecent play.

Richard Cantillon, defense attorney for James A. Timony, the author, and 14 members of the cast, described the production as "just comical nonsense."

Another big reading thrill is in store for Journal subscribers tomorrow with the second issue of the new Five Star Weekly—the colorful and dramatic feature supplement now being circulated each Saturday in The Journal.

Making a terrific hit in Orange county upon its introduction last week, the Five Star Weekly tomorrow contains another galaxy of stimulating, bright articles and attractive, inimitable art.

You'll enjoy the exclusive interview with Charmian London, wife of the famous California author, Jack London, who believes that her husband is still alive. Although 20 years have passed since he departed this world, she keeps Jack's home and his desk just as he left them.

Whether you believe in ghosts or not, you can't fail to like the story of the great awakening of the "ghost" towns, forgotten relics of the old, old days which are coming to life again. E. E. Albertson tells this story, and relates how the abandoned settlements are reviving to the tune of $35-an-ounce gold.

Stay Single, King
Don't Pick Any of Five
Eligible, Say Local Men

By VIRGINIA SMITH

"It's okeh with us, King, old top. You can stay single. We're all for you."

If Santa Ana men had the "oyezzing" to do on the new King Edward of England's marriage, that's the decree they'd issue, according to a survey I made yesterday.

The idea of having to pick a wife just because she arrived with a battered gold crown on her head and an ermine robe on her shoulders, is all "agin" the principles of American men.

When they lead a woman to the dishpan and can-opener in a two-room apartment with a Murphy bed, it's not because her father owns a grocery store. And they don't see why the debonair King has to pick a spouse just because the United States has a mortgage on her papa.

That's the marital predicament of King Edward VIII, who until the death of his father last Monday was known as the Prince of Wales. English laws governing royal marriages give him five candidates from which to choose a queen: Princess Irene, Princess Katherine and Princess Eugenie of Greece, Grand Duchess Kira of Russia, and Princess Juliana of Holland.

John McCoy, boys' counselor at Santa Ana High school, said: "Phooey, I'd remain a bachelor. Do you know what the salary of the King of England is? Two (Please Turn to Page 5, Col. 4)

One Million Britons Begin
Sorrowful Pilgrimage at Bier of Late King George

By BURDETTE JOHNS

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The first of 1,000,000 sorrowful pilgrims filed today past the bier of the late King George V—a black catafalque, approached on purple-carpeted steps, in the ancient palace of Westminster.

There will be paid four days of public homage before the final service and burial next Tuesday at Windsor. King Edward, the queen mother, and other members of the royal family appeared unexpectedly at Westminster hall late today.

They, as so many thousands before them had done today, silently gazed upon the face of the dead king.

As Big Ben boomed 8 a. m. the nation's pilgrimage began.

When the famous clock strikes 10 p. m. Monday, authorities said, at least 1,000,000 of the dead sovereign's subjects—men, women and children alike—will have joined in this last act of tribute.

A queue more than a mile long swelled outside the hall by noon today as the first of the ranks, four abreast, marched into the great hall, and past the coffin.

Long before last midnight, crowds gathered in the streets about the medieval Westminster hall, sacrificing their sleep and braving a misty rain to be among the first to pay tribute to their late king.

He was rushed to the office of Dr. B. M. Mason at Laguna Beach where the operation took place. Later he was removed to St. Joseph's hospital here.

CLIMAX NEAR IN BORDER FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (P)—The administration's neutrality bill was ready to emerge from the house foreign affairs committee today, with indications some members will struggle later to make it more drastic. The measure may be considered on the floor of the house next Wednesday or Thursday.

TOKYO, Jan. 24. (P)—Numerous new frontier incidents between the Japanese-advantaged state of Manchoukuo and Soviet-influenced Outer Mongolia drove the East Asian border controversy today toward an apparent climax.

110 DEAD AS COLD SNAP INCREASES

New Blast Of Arctic Weather Sweeping East Of Rockies

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. (P)—A new blast of Arctic weather slashed down the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains today with more sub-zero weather for a shivering nation.

Snow barriers deepened over the Northwest just as the eastern half of the country was beginning to thaw out from a two-day frigid wave that left at least 110 dead in 17 states.

Temperatures rose slightly from South Dakota and Nebraska to New York as wild gales spent their force over the Atlantic, but more icy winds whistled down from Canada's MacKenzie river basin.

40 Below

Snow swept southward from Montana to blanket parts of Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois to night and tomorrow before moving on to the East coast.

Minnesota bore the brunt of the frigid wave for the third successive day, with a low of 40 below zero at Park Rapids.

North Dakota was almost as cold, with 38 below at Grand Forks.

Montana thermometers dropped sharply on the path of a storm due to cut over Wyoming, North and South Dakota, most of Kansas, Northeastern Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana to the Gulf.

Zero in Kentucky

The Southeast was already freezing. It was zero in Kentucky and 34 above at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Midwest was promised a few days relief with a heavy snow before the new cold struck. Chicago, where the mercury swung up from minus 17.1 to zero and then down again to 14 below at 8 a. m., looked for 15 above before nightfall.

A new storm tragedy was disclosed on Delaware bay, with recovery of a yacht near Cape May, N. Y., the crew of three which set out from Wilmington, Del., Wednesday, froze to death.

LEAGUE AGREES TO END ROW

GENEVA, Jan. 24. (P)—The League of Nations council late today adopted a resolution, supported by both Soviet Russia and Uruguay, to settle the dispute between the two countries arising from Uruguay's charges that the Soviet Legion in Montevideo directed subversive activities throughout South America.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, invited the two nations to refrain from any act "which might be harmful to the interests of peace and to the resumption of their diplomatic relations in the future."

Uruguay recently broke off diplomatic relations with Moscow and handed the Soviet ambassador his passports.

4000 ON RELIEF
PROJECT QUIT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (P)—Four thousand relief workers on a huge storm drain project quit today. Spokesmen said the men will not touch their tools until given their semi-monthly pay checks.

They said the pay date falls on Sunday, and that they were objecting to holding back the checks until Monday.

NEW BANK CHIEF

C. A. Warren, above, who today was named to succeed the late C. K. Dodds as vice president and manager of the Bank of America, Santa Ana branch. Mr. Warren comes here from Ontario.

BANK NAMES MANAGER

C. A. Warren, Ontario, To Fill Vacancy Caused By Death Of Dodds

Appointed today as vice president and manager of the Bank of America, Santa Ana branch, C. A. Warren, Ontario, will come to Santa Ana the first part of next week to assume his duties.

Mr. Warren, previously manager of the Ontario branch bank, was named today by Dr. A. H. Giannini, Los Angeles, chairman of the bank's general executive committee, to fill the position left vacant by the recent death of C. K. Dodds.

"The agricultural importance of Orange county and the metropolitan aspect of Santa Ana demand of a banker holding an executive position here the widest possible experience in the field of finance," Dr. Giannini said.

"In selecting Mr. Warren for this important post at our Santa Ana branch, we do so in recognition of the economic importance of Orange county to the state as a whole. Both he and J. E. Breaux, assistant manager, are eminently qualified to serve the diversified interests of the community."

The new manager was born in Lake Benton, Minn., and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. He began his banking career in Hinckley, Minn., in 1910, and spent 12 years after 1916 banking in Arizona. He has been affiliated with Bank of America since 1928, first in Los Angeles, and more recently in Ontario. He and Mrs. Warren plan to make Santa Ana their permanent home.

Two Differences
"The bill I now return differs from last year's bill in only two important respects: First, it eliminates the issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payments required and substitutes interest bearing bonds, which, however, may be converted into cash for face value at any time; second, it adds $263,000,000 to the total payments by forgiving interest after Oct. 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed."

"In all other respects, the circumstances, arguments and facts remain essentially the same as those fully covered and explained by me only eight months ago."

Indorsement of the determination on Capitol Hill to make the bill law despite the veto was the comment of Senator Clark (D., Mo.), one of the authors:

"We'll pass it over his veto."

One pertinent phrase from last year's veto message which Mr. Roosevelt evidently had in mind today was:

THIRD PARTY'S PETITION OUT

LONG BEACH, Jan. 24. (P)—Petitions to form a "Townsend party" in California were put into circulation today in what leaders of the pension plan organization described as a "precautionary move."

The petitions will not be filed with the California secretary of state, said an announcement, if candidates favorable to the old age pension proposal of $200 monthly are successful in the May 5 presidential primary. Otherwise the machinery will be set in motion creating a third party based on the proposals of Dr. F. E. Townsend, retired Long Beach physician.

F.D.R. TURNS DOWN CASH PAYMENT

Passage Of Bill Into Law Predicted By Capital Leaders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (P)—President Roosevelt summarily vetoed the bond bonus bill today, only to have the house override him at once amidst predictions that the senate would do the same next week.

The vote was 324 to 61.

Objections Impelling
In a handwritten message, the executive said his objections to the prepayment were as impelling as when he rejected the Patman bill last session.

"Therefore I can not change them," his 200-word message concluded.

House members barely awaited to hear the reading of the brief veto message before demands of "vote, vote" were shouted on the floor.

Delay Turned Down
Democratic leaders sought to delay the ballot until Monday, but were voted down, 189 to 131.

The senate does not meet until Monday so final action was delayed over the week-end. Leaders there predicted the senators would join the representatives and make the $2,491,000,000 bill law over the President's opposition.

Mr. Roosevelt's handwritten message, returning the bonus bill "without my approval," broke precedent of a quarter of a century.

Override Predicted
But Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, chairman of the finance committee and an administration stalwart, said:

"It is my opinion that the veto will not be sustained. I shall vote to override the veto."

Mr. Roosevelt's handwritten message, referred senators and representatives "respectfully * * * to every word of what I said" in last year's veto of a currency-expansion bonus payment bill.

"My convictions are as impelling today as they were then, the President said. "Therefore I can not change them."

Mr. Roosevelt added:

Two Differences
"The bill I now return differs from last year's bill in only two important respects: First, it eliminates the issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payments required and substitutes interest bearing bonds, which, however, may be converted into cash for face value at any time; second, it adds $263,000,000 to the total payments by forgiving interest after Oct. 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed."

SPEEDY CONVICTION LOOMS FOR 'SEX' SLAYER OF FRESNO GIRL

HOPE KILLER WILL TELL MOTIVE

FRESNO, Jan. 24. (AP)—The fate of Elton M. Stone, 31, confessed slayer of Mary Louise Stammer, 14, today is before a Fresno county grand jury which is expected to return a speedy indictment charging first degree murder.

The grand jury inquiry is the first step in efforts of Fresno county officers to guarantee administration of justice to the man who has confessed what they term "the most fiendish crime in Fresno history." Monday, it is planned he will be arraigned here in the superior court.

Action Expected
Prompt action by the grand jury is expected to release District Attorney Dan Conway and Sheriff George J. Overholt to go to Folsom prison in an attempt to question Stone further.

They will be accompanied by Police Chief Frank Truax who seeks to determine if an alibi Stone established in 1934 when he was questioned in the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Bertha Blagg in a somewhat similar crime, is true.

Stone appeared unchanged since the Mary Stammer murder to his employer, Irvin Lencioni, garage proprietor and a grand jury witness. "I did not notice any difference in him at all," Lencioni said today. "He was cheerful, joked a lot as usual, and at no time gave me any reason to suspect him of any wrongdoing of any kind, let alone something like this."

Other Murders
At the request of the San Diego police, Stone also will be questioned as to his movements in March and April of 1931 when 10-year-old Virginia Brooks and Louise Teuber, 12, were slain. Sheriff Overholt said he was convinced there was no reason other than a fiendish desire to commit a sex crime.

Disrobes Victim
Miss Stammer was shot in the richly furnished Stammer residence Nov. 24. Her assailant then broke through a door, carried the limp form to the bedroom and disrobed her.

Physicians said she had not been assaulted but that an immoral act had been performed. "We do not anticipate any violence," Conway and Overholt declared. "There will be no reason for it. We are banking on the good judgment and the cooperation of the people as shown throughout this case."

That Stone may break and reveal the true motive for the crime, is the expectation of the officers here and under Sheriff C. A. Tarr and Deputy Sheriff John Ford, who questioned him at Folsom.

May Talk Later
They reported to Overholt he clung to his original story that "Stammer will know why," last night, but he was evasive and declined to go into detail.

Conway says Stone indicated to him and County Detective G. J. Mohler that he may talk later. Hides Real Motive
Conway and Overholt insist they believe Stone is trumping up some explanation of the crime to hide a sex-motive.

Conway issued subpoenas for several witnesses to testify before the grand jury. They include Stammer, Dr. C. M. Vandenberg, the family physician; Irvin Lencioni, Stone's associate in the Northford garage where he worked since his release from San Quentin prison; Owen Kessell, an aide of Morrill; Mohler, Overholt, Deputy Sheriff Wallace J. Moore and ambulance drivers.

Slayer of Stammer Girl is 'Trying to Save His Neck; Hanging Will Be 'Perfect'

By L. S. KIMBALL

FOLSOM PRISON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Elton Stone, 31-year-old ex-convict who claims he has a motive that will "justify" the brutal slaying of 14-year-old Mary Stammer, is only "trying to save his neck" in the opinion of penitentiary officers here.

The prison officials, who figure in the case only as keepers of the shift-eyed confessed slayer and cannot be named, spent all of an afternoon with Stone after he was brought here yesterday to prevent mob violence at Fresno, where the slaying occurred last Nov. 24.

He's Scared
After listening to reporters question Stone for an hour without drawing the asserted motive from him, one of the officials, a man who has talked and lived with scores of condemned men, said: "Stone is scared. He's trying to save his neck. He's really thinks he has a motive. It may be that he has, in his mind, accused the girl's family of some imaginary wrong and built it up until it became a fearful obsession."

"But it looks as though he realizes that he has committed a horrible crime and talks of a secret motive, while he searches desperately for something on which he can appeal for mercy."

Denies Sex Outburst
Stone, his small, brown discolored eyes jumping from face to face in the only show of nervousness that slipped into his expressions, repeatedly denied he killed the girl in an outburst of sex, although he admitted committing an improper act after shooting her. He refused to say whether he would plead guilty and insisted that the killing was only one of revenge but to questions upon what his hate was based, he replied variously:

"Nothing doing." "Wouldn't you like to know?" "Aw, go peddle your papers."

He admitted that the girl's father, a lawyer, never, so far as he knew, had appeared in any legal cases involving his family or that he had done anything to injure any other members of his family. He shook his thin, long head stubbornly when asked if the girl's father had done anything to him:

"I'll tell that when I get in court, maybe," he replied.

"The old lady," he declared, referring to the girl's mother, "almost got it once but the old man came into the room too quick." He said that was the only other time he had lain in ambush outside the residence.

Score All Even

"You feel, then, that you are all square," he was asked.

"Yes," he replied, but added:

"If I had to do it all over again I would do it a little differently. I'm a little sorry the girl is dead but there wasn't any sex in my mind when I killed her."

"You are willing to take whatever comes now, even hanging?"

"It'll be perfect," he retorted.

Stone has a mother, three brothers and a sister living at Fresno and a brother at Salinas.

He said he went to high school at Sacramento, worked in the Texas and California oil fields, and road construction work. He is an auto mechanic by trade.

He has a police record stretching back to 1924, when he was sentenced to a reform school for burglary in Sacramento. He was paroled and went back to the school for auto theft, escaped, was captured and paroled again. In 1931 he started serving a theft term in prison and was paroled nearly two years ago.

WORK STARTED ON SIX-FOLD TAX RESEARCH PROGRAM

Starting work on a six-fold program of tax research with a view to reducing the total state load and balancing the budget, representatives of the state chamber of commerce tax committee, southern division, and taxpayers associations in each of the southern counties met yesterday in Los Angeles.

Mayor Tom Talbert of Huntington Beach, George Raymer, secretary of the county taxpayers' league, and Fred Krause, Santa Ana, attended the sessions from here.

The program as inaugurated will include a study of the fixed charges of state government, a study of the possibility of providing a central control for government expenditures, to eliminate borrowing from funds, switching of special appropriations and similar matters; a study of limitations of the state budget; possible consolidation of government agencies; use of gas tax monies for all roads and highways, rather than direct redistribution to county and city governments, and steps to draw up a comprehensive survey of the total bonded indebtedness of each county in the state.

Study Fixed Charges
Most important of these studies, according to Mr. Raymer, probably is that having to do with fixed charges in the state budget. Faced with a problem of balancing a state budget already $80,000,000 in excess of total income, the fact that fixed charges represent 68 per cent of the total budget makes the question much more difficult.

A comprehensive survey worked out at yesterday's meeting, Mr. Raymer said, shows that total fixed charges in the state budget amount to $186,000,000 from the general fund, which included an appropriation for schools of $140,070,966.

Special charges, coming from the state gasoline tax and license fees, which go back to the twenties, amounts to $109,000,000 for the biennial period. Eighty per cent of the special fund is charged to fixed expenditures.

Among the departments, exclusive of schools, which are maintained by fixed charges are legislative salaries, bond interest and redemption, judicial salaries, tuberculosis subsidies, aid for the aged, orphans and blind, vocational education, teachers retirement, employees retirement, education of veterans' dependents, junior colleges and free textbooks—for a grand total of nearly $200,000,000.

To Seek Attitude
An attempt will be made to work out the league's attitude on these problems and determine what steps can be taken to reduce fixed expenditures of the state, prior to the tax meeting held by Governor Merriam in Sacramento on Feb. 3.

Mr. Talbert and J. P. Baumgartner, officers of the county league, will be sent to Sacramento as its representatives. Mr. Talbert, a recognized authority on the taxation question, also will represent the economic league of Los Angeles, and Mr. Baumgartner will also represent the Santa Ana chamber of commerce.

Representatives of the California Parent-Teacher association who attended yesterday's meeting, indicated that the association also would send representatives to the Sacramento session.

FILE CHARGES AGAINST 13
Criminal complaints were issued late Wednesday against 13 commercial fishermen, charging them with fishing illegally inside the fish preserve off the Orange county coast. The complaints were issued from the office of Deputy District Attorney James Walker.

The action was requested after the 13 men were apprehended by the Broadbill state patrol boat, in charge of Ed Hyde, master, assisted by Ray Ellis of the division of fish and game. The charges against the men are misdemeanors, punishable by fines of not to exceed $500 or jail terms not to exceed six months or both. The Orange county fish preserve was created by the last legislature. It extends throughout the length of the county's coastline, and for a distance of two miles out to sea.

Commercial fishing with nets of greater than 120 fathoms to take fish other than bait is prohibited in the preserve.

The 13 defendants were cited to appear in the Huntington Beach and Newport Beach justice courts. The fishermen arrested and their boats: C. Allie, "Nuonia"; R. Barber, "America IV"; K. Zar, "Majestic"; Joe Diabbe, "Eight Brothers"; G. Tomo, "Standard II"; Gill Kell, "Traveler II"; J. Aslin, "Garfield"; H. Nasia, "Congress"; A. F. Esdosity, "Victoria"; M. Kanishlan, "Santos"; Carl Satcher, "Franklin"; John Falcone, "Amelia II"; and Joe Bocron, "Orion."

OUSTER CASE FACES NEW PROBLEM

A new complication came to light today in the case of County Recorder Justine Whitney, against whom ouster action has been taken by the grand jury. The new aspect on the situation resulted from a move to secure a writ of prohibition to prevent the superior court here from proceeding farther with the case. The complication may result in prolonging the grand jury's session.

Should the fourth district court of appeals grant Attorney O. A. Jacobs' request for the writ and set a time for a hearing on making it permanent in session until the take place after the grand jury has adjourned. Then, if the higher court should permanently restrain the local court from going ahead with the case, the present accusation would have to be dropped.

Only Jury Can Act

Only the grand jury can file an accusation demanding removal of a public official. Such an action cannot be started by the district attorney. If the grand jury had adjourned, no other accusation to replace the other one could be filed until next year's grand jury convened, or unless a special session was ordered by the presiding judge.

In view of this, speculation in court circles today dwelt on the possibility that the grand jury might remain in session until the court of appeals rules on Mr. Jacobs' petition for a writ of prohibition. The investigators have been hoping to end their work and go home by Feb. 1, but it is doubtful if the court of appeals would make a final ruling on the case by that time. One alternative that may be considered by the grand jury is that instead of ending its session Feb. 1, it could adjourn temporarily and reconvene on a date several weeks later.

Could File New Charge

In that event, if the court of appeals granted a permanent writ of prohibition, the grand jury could then file a new accusation and proceedings could be started again.

The ouster case is a civil action against Whitney, charged with neglect of duty. It is scheduled to go to trial in department three of the superior court Monday.

The grand jury also has lodged an indictment against Miss Whitney, which is a criminal matter. In both cases she is accused of failing to make monthly reports on funds collected in one month to make complete deposits with the treasurer for the preceding month.

Appropriation of public funds to her own use is charged in the indictment. The grand jury also has lodged an indictment against Miss Whitney, which is a criminal matter. ## CITY LEAGUE STUDENTS AT HEARS TALK HIGH ELECT

Speaking on the civic functions of city governments, City Attorney Harold Hulls, Pasadena, addressed members of the Orange County League of Municipalities last night in the council chamber of the city hall, at the monthly meeting of the league.

The league adjourned to the city hall, where an inspection of the building was made prior to the general session, following a dinner held in the Green Cat cafe.

Albert Laumer, Fullerton city attorney, gave a short talk on franchises in their relation to city government, and Ray Overacker, city attorney of Huntington Beach, talked briefly on other aspects of the utilities question.

The business session was featured by a report from Mayor C. H. Mann, Anaheim, on the policies for 1936 of the state league of municipalities, of which Mr. Mann is a director.

AGED ACTOR DIES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Death has closed the stage and screen career of William Robyns, 81, who joined an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company when he was 11 years old. He was known widely as a trouper who supported many great stars of the theater but never starred himself.

BEAUTY CONTEST FEATURES OFFICERS BALL SATURDAY

Among the many attractions to feature the annual county Peace Officers' association ball tomorrow night at the Valencia ball room will be a beauty contest for the title of "Miss Orange County," a floor show, and music by Sunny Brooks band of Hollywood. As an added attraction, the entertainment committee of the association has announced a dancing contest.

Dorothy Jarvis, popular Paramount actress, will be assisted in judging the beauty contest by W. H. Lollier, representative of Fox-West Coast Theaters. The judges have promised to bring several film celebrities to Santa Ana for the occasion.

Miss Jarvis, who is featured with Bing Crosby in his latest picture, "Anything Goes," has selected six contestants out of the 15 registered, as qualified for entrance in the race for the title of "Miss Orange County." The six be safe if we engage in a policy of yielding to each and all of the groups that are able to enforce upon congress claims for special consideration."

White House aides said Mr. Roosevelt broke precedent of a quarter of a century and sent his message to capitol hill in his own handwriting.

Was No Surprise
Up to the time of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt all messages to congress were written in long hand. But none has gone to the capitol in long hand since then.

While the veto did not come as a surprise, the manner of its sudden transmission to congress today upset calculations.

Earlier in the day at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt had smilingly declined to discuss the bonus.

The senate last year upheld the veto after the house had overridden the personally presented plea of the President against the legislation.

ITALY WARNS BRITISH

ROME, Jan. 24. (AP)—Italy warned the sanctionist nations of the world today that Great Britain's action in arranging a Mediterranean security pact constituted a "danger for European peace."

A memorandum prepared for Geneva distribution to the sanctionist powers protested that Great Britain had acted outside the league covenant in initiating the Mediterranean discussions.

ITALIANS KILLED

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 24. (AP)—Ethiopian authorities claimed today that 1700 Italians had been killed in the northern front battle southwest of Makale. They said 800 others, many of Austrian extraction, had been wounded.

The Ethiopian claim ran directly counter to an Italian official communique which said the battle had resulted in "complete Italian victory."

ITALIAN TROOPS ENTER NEHELLI

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY AT NEHELLI, Ethiopia, Jan. 20 (By courier to Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, Jan. 24.)—Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, commander of Italy's southern punitive forces, personally led his troops into this capital of Galla Boreana today.

There was no opposition. The capital, which in reality is a stockaded village, was deserted.

15 MORE LIQUOR AGENTS DROPPED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24. (AP)—The board of equalization dismissed 15 more employees yesterday from the Los Angeles and Fresno districts, bringing to more than 60 the number discharged since Ray Edgar, new Southern California board member, started reorganization of his district.

Selected are Miss Hazel Lee, Miss Muriel Wetton, Miss Lois Newbold, Miss Nita Bradford, Miss Valerie Snow, Miss Phyllis Boots, Miss Margaret Crowell, Miss Dorothy Rentfro and Miss Jane Gouley.

Tickets for the affair are being sold by peace officers throughout the county and at the association's headquarters, 112 East Fourth street, Santa Ana. Lee Mann, acting manager of the ball committee, said the tickets are selling for $3 a couple, and that pictures of the entrants in the beauty contest are on display at the headquarters where entrants are registered.

START TREE PROJECT IN MID-WEST

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 24. (AP)—Federal shelterbelt officials announced today the first of 22,500,000 trees to be planted in six Midwestern states during 1936 will be set out immediately in Northwestern Oklahoma and Northwestern Texas.

Relief laborers will plant the trees as part of a federal $75,000,000 attempt to control wind erosion and reduce soil moisture evaporation. Wages for the tree planters range from $45 to $27 a month for 130 hours of work.

Cost Is $2,000,000

Officials estimated the new program, which will add 124 miles of shelterbelt to the 125 miles planted last year, would cost $2,000,000 during 1936. They said the work would require 700,000 man days of labor.

The program includes:

North Dakota—304 miles of shelterbelt, 5,000,000 trees.

South Dakota—274 miles of shelterbelt, 4,500,000 trees.

Nebraska—200 miles of shelterbelt, 3,250,000 trees.

Kansas—288 miles of shelterbelt, 3,750,000 trees.

Oklahoma—153 miles of shelterbelt, 3,000,000 trees.

Texas—200 miles of shelterbelt, 3,500,000 trees.

John D. Jones, public relations director, said planting would start immediately at Mangum, Okla.; Elk City, Okla., and Chillicothe, Tex., and would continue until this year's program was completed.

At the peak of the season, Jones said, would be at work on a project which stretches from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico.

The main species of trees to be planted were Russian Olive, American Elm, Chinese Elm, Burr Oak, Cottonwood, Hackberry, Red Cedar and Ponderosa pine.

Forty-nine persons died in 1935 in Miami, Fla., from injuries suffered in traffic accidents.

Eagle Eye

Snapshots by The Journal's Candid Cameraman

Straight into the eagle eye of the law as represented by Bud Heard, Fourth and Main traffic cop, looked The Journal's candid cameraman, but just then the blue-coat turned his head to a jaywalking man's side and thought he might blow his whistle, but didn't. Watch tomorrow's picture. It might be you.

Meet Your Neighbor
The Journal's compilation of Orange County People You Should Know.

Name: A. W. Swayze
Occupation: Justice of the peace, Orange township; police judge, city of Orange.

Home address: 274 North Cambridge, Orange.
Where were you born: Kansas, Brown county.

What has been the most interesting event of your life to date?

My two terms of service as chief criminal judge and two terms of service as sheriff of Orange county, Kansas.

What career would you recommend for a young man starting out for himself today?

I would recommend a career of public service, but with the proper educational background as now available in most of our great universities.

If you were editor of The Journal, what one change would you make in the paper?

If I were in the editor's chair, I would assume some definite editorial policy, in keeping with the sentiments and convictions of the majority of our people, and vigorously defend such a policy without deviation to personal attacks or to the pecuniary interest of any one person or group of persons.

What do you like least in The Journal?

Your "comics."

What do you like best in The Journal?

Washington Merry-Go-Round.

What should be the United States government's next major step?

Decentralization of government back to the smaller political subdivisions where it belongs, and where the foundation of the nation's progress always has been pioneered.

What one thing does Santa Ana need most?

Closer cooperation of its citizens.

How can Orange county be improved?

Securing of its water resources, and solution of all problems connected with cheap water and adequate flood control.

One sentence interview: Work with our young people should occupy a more important and prominent place in our daily lives, and should become a community and county-wide objective of the first nature, not only to prevent juvenile delinquency but to give opportunity to every youngster to find a place for himself in our complex business world.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WE'RE expecting to see a big policeman drag the city of Laguna Beach off to jail any time now.

When a citizen disobeys the law, he goes to the jailhouse—sometimes. Is it, or isn't it, the same for cities?

Because Laguna, as a community, isn't obeying the state law regarding parallel parking.

Every place else, where a state highway runs through town, like in Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana, Capistrano, San Clemente, and so on, angle parking has been stopped. Drivers must now sweat and swear while backing and forwarding between two other cars. Fenders and tempers have suffered much in those towns.

But not in Laguna—drivers there still swing in to the curb just like in the good old days, in spite of the state law.

They say that the state at one time—about three years ago—turned the highway which runs through the business district over to the community. Laguna was supposed to take care of that stretch of road, just like a stray cat, or something. Now that they have taken care of it for so long, they content residents can park any old way they please, just so it pleases the local police.

As yet there hasn't been much said about it. But suppose the governor, coming home from Riverside, should pass through Laguna and see the angle-parking cars there! My, oh my! Wouldn't he be displeased?

And, it'd make a good story if the state officers hauled Laguna away to jail, wouldn't it?

The reason we're so excited about the parking situation is because of the weather.

It was like this—as advertised, it was summer in Santa Ana. The office was warm—too warm for comfort. We started wondering how Laguna was getting along—you know how one thing of the beach when it's hot—and so away we went.

Don White was at home, so we stopped for a couple of words, and got to talking about fishing, in which we were interested, and seals, which we were mad at, but Don wasn't about the high price of automobile licenses and Laguna weather, as compared to Riverside.

The fishing, Don confessed, wasn't so good, even for Laguna. He'd thrown away an even half-dozen sinkers—the splashing probably scared away every catchable fish within miles.

Then, far down the coast, we could see a trio of seals splashing. That brought to mind the one-sided debate about the fish-eating animals, in which Don defended the seals against an attack by Newport Beachers, who said they were destroyers of surplus fish and general all-around good-for-nothing meanies. He still insists they're an attraction to the beach town, brush their teeth every morning and kiss their respective wives before leaving for the office.

We couldn't say, but we don't like 'em much, anyway.

And, after we'd relaxed awhile from Santa Ana's summer, we toured on down the coast to Dana Point.

Always, when we think of Dana Point, we think of Dave Prenter, so we stopped by his office, which is also the state camp office. But we couldn't find him, so he lost out on hearing a lot of moans on the warm weather inland.

The next step, of course, was the state beach—at the intersection of the inland and coast highways.

The caretaker's cottage, started by Robert C. Conner, the state camp superintendent, and his CCC boys, is nearing completion. It's a substantial looking place, built of 'dobe bricks, and will make a fine nest for the caretaker when the winds are roaring in from the ocean this winter. If they roar.

The adobe wall which parallels the highway at the state camp looks fine—it's standing the weather very well, and adds much to the beauty of the spot. Several carloads of folks were enjoying that beach, even in January. Wait until summer!

Did you read the other day about Capt. Hyde and his crew, Ray Ellis, from the state fish and game patrol boat "Broadbill," sneaking up on a whole bunch of alleged illegal fishermen? We were interested.

Capt. Hyde didn't seem to think it was such an out-of-the-way thing, to catch 15 or so boat operators. Of course, they spent most of the night corraling the fishermen, but it was all in the day's—or night's—work, said he.

He became very technical in explaining why the men were given citations to appear in court—they were fishing, he said, with nets so many fathoms deep—we've forgotten how much of a little, a fathom is, and who cares, anyway? Anyway, that's what they were doing, inside the two-mile limit set by the fishing reserve bill, he claimed.

And so, they saved lots and lots of sardines from entering small, flat cans. They may live, now, to let big fish chase 'em this summer. And, when the big fish chase

POLAR EXPLORER TO LECTURE IN FULLERTON TOMORROW

BYRD TO BE SPEAKER AT SCHOOL

Junior Chamber Arranges Appearance Of Hero From Antarctic

FULLERTON.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, hero of many polar adventures and noted for his discoveries in Antarctica, will speak before two audiences at the Fullerton Union High school auditorium here tomorrow.

Sponsored by the Fullerton junior chamber of commerce, Admiral Byrd will lecture at a matinee for school children at 2:30 p. m. Another appearance is slated for 8 p. m., which will be open to the public. In addition to his talk, Admiral Byrd will show 9000 feet of motion pictures taken at Little America. The pictures are entirely different from those seen before locally, it has been announced.

Admiral Byrd will arrive in Fullerton about noon tomorrow, and will be formally welcomed by Mayor W. L. Hale and a group of city officials. Junior chamber of commerce officials will escort the speaker from Los Angeles and have arranged for a police escort.

Tickets are still on sale for both appearances. Lloyd Verry and Bob Hatfield, chamber heads, announced today. Reserved seat tickets may still be obtained at the Fullerton chamber of commerce offices, they said.

LA HABRA MAN IS SUMMONED

LA HABRA.—Nathan Heaton, 91, oldest living pioneer of the La Habra valley, died at his home on East First street here yesterday following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Heaton came to California in 1887, settling in El Modena. In 1892 he moved to Whittier, where he built one of the first stores in that vicinity. Later he moved to property in La Habra, where he lived since 1910.

Surviving are three sons, A. L. Heaton, San Gabriel; Ivan F. Heaton, Fullerton, and E. B. Heaton, La Brea, and four daughters, Mrs. Josiah Jackson, East Whittier; Mrs. J. C. Forrester, Roseburg, Ore.; Mrs. A. C. Barnett, and Miss Annie Heaton, La Habra.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the White-Emerson parlors in Whittier, with the Rev. Harley Moore, pastor of the East Whittier Friends church, in charge. Interment will be in Rose Hills cemetery.

PACKING HEADS RE-ELECTED

ORANGE.—The same board of directors was re-elected for the coming year in the Orange Mutual Citrus association Thursday afternoon at the conclusion of the annual meeting.

J. F. Snowden, Dan W. Gruwell, E. E. Kirkwood, H. J. Hinricks, and G. W. Struckler will serve on the board, it was decided. On behalf of the board directors, L. F. Finley, manager, gave the financial report, main items of which included a net cost of 43.25 cents per box on all pro-rated oranges; 75.14 cents, net cost per box on all lemons shipped; 11 cents per packed box, cost of pre-cooler operations.

ANAHEIM GETS 20 GUARDS FOR SCHOOL CROSSINGS

ANAHEIM.—Twenty school crossing guards will start work in Anaheim, paid with Works Progress administration funds, it has been announced by Chief of Police James S. Bouldin.

All dangerous school crossings will be in charge of a guard five days each week, Chief Bouldin announced.

GROVE STUDENT FETED ON BIRTHDAY

GARDEN GROVE.—A group of Paul Whipp's classmates at Fullerton Junior college were invited by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Whipp to a dinner on his birthday anniversary, Tuesday evening. After dinner the group attended a show.

In the party were Roy Hill, Placentia; Aldon Rodick, Atwood; Don Dungan, Rodney Arkley and Lloyd Whipp, Garden Grove.

BRIDGE PARTY IS PLANNED BY CLUB

GARDEN GROVE.—A 1 o'clock desert bridge has been planned for a meeting of the Monday Afternoon Star club at the home of Mrs. George Lynch, Pine street, next Monday afternoon.

Assisting hostess will be Mrs. W. A. Wheeler and Mrs. W. A. Gill.

'em, they get excited, and maybe'll grab your bait. Which makes the $2 fishing license fee charged beginning this year seem a little more just, doesn't it?

THIS TAKES LOTS OF COURAGE

It would seem to take lots of courage to submit to this sort of an operation, but John Melick let Paul Criss, ex-lumberjack, chop down his blooming beard with a double-edged, 5½-pound ax at Kansas City. Criss said he had shaved 53 men with the ax, which he keeps for that purpose alone. (Associated Press Photo)

Homesick Donkeys, War Hero and Turtles Are 'Coastline' Features

By McDONALD WHITE

Fred E. Lewis, millionaire world-adventurer and philanthropist, has returned from a five-months' cruise with his crew of 13 Newport and Laguna Sea Scouts, but didn't bring home the largest turtle in the world, according to a story picked up in the course of the daily search in Laguna.

Mr. Lewis' magnificent cruising yacht, the "M. S. Stranger," sailed from New London, Conn., where she was joined by the professional crew and Sea Scouts, most of whom are from Laguna and Newport. They crossed the country by rail last August and cruised in southern waters for some time, making several stops in the Caribbean.

It was during their visit to Galapagos Island that the manhunt for the largest turtle in the world was staged, but without success. Here's the story, heard hereabouts.

Wherever Mr. Lewis goes he endeavors to bring home alive, the largest of whatever specie he goes after. About two years ago he captured a turtle weighing around 400 pounds, which he presented to the San Diego zoo. However, shortly after that, Adventurer Hancock donated a bigger one. Of course that dealt a crushing blow to Mr. Lewis' pride. "Bring 'em back bigger" is his motto.

Undaunted, before starting on this last trip he heard of two still larger turtles living on the Galapagos Islands for a few centuries. They were top-notchers, these fellows, weighing well over 600 pounds, according to the natives who had seen them. One roamed about the island, grubbing away at tropical vegetation and fruits, living peacefully her long span of years. The other big one, which is the largest ever seen, lives in a deep, extinct volcano crater where, apparently, he has resided for countless decades.

Mr. Lewis set his heart on capturing these two turtles, which he also planned to present to the zoo in San Diego. The elaborate preparations made to get these animals included taking aboard the "Stranger" four burros, to be used in pulling the turtle out of the crater. Long ropes were purchased and all the plans were laid before they landed at the Galapagos, according to the story.

But, to their utter dismay, upon arriving at the islands they learned that Adventurer Hole had left, only a month before, with one of the big turtles aboard.

That left only the biggest of all turtles—the one that lived in the crater. So, immediately, a valiant effort was made to pull the monster from the depths of the jagged sloped crater. But even the burros proved inadequate for this job. The system was found to be all wrong.

So Mr. Lewis has returned again, but without his prize turtle. He brought home many smaller turtles and animals of various kinds, which have been donated to the zoo.

The spirit of true adventurers knows no defeat. Mr. Lewis wants to get the biggest turtle in the world. After experiencing several defeats at the hands of circumstances, he is bound to win next time. Only next time he might take with him a balloon, which ought to remove Mr. Turtle without even a scratch. Good luck!

At least, that's the way the story goes.

But what's really got us wondering is—will the San Diego zoo take care of those four homesick burros? Or will they be shipped back to the Galapagos next trip to serve as anchors for the balloon? Or what did happen to them.

It takes a lot of crust to be a reporter. Some of them get fired

POSTAL GROUP HAS MEETING

LAGUNA BEACH.—The Orange County Postmasters' association met at Hotel Laguna Thursday night for a turkey dinner, music, entertainment and dancing, with Mrs. Ada E. Purpus, postmaster of Laguna, acting as hostess.

Following the dinner, Mrs. W. G. Greenside, Doheny Park, gave two whistling numbers, accompanied by Mrs. William A. Maxwell, Chris Valente, Laguna singer, sang "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." John Mariner scored a rousing success with his interpretation of "The Face on the Barroom Floor," assisted by Bill Ross and LeRoy Walden. Miss Jean Purpus danced to music of Couss's orchestra.

The postmasters were introduced by Mrs. Purpus, who named Postmasters Long of Tustin and Harwood of Santa Ana as the two "babies" of the evening, due to their short terms in office. L. F. Harvey and Flake Smith of Santa Ana were briefly problems of the 40-hour law.

PLAN TO HONOR G. G. SCOUTS

GARDEN GROVE.—A Court of Honor for Scout troop No. 11 was planned for the evening of Feb. 26 by American Legion members, at a meeting Wednesday evening at Legion hall. Members of the Lions club, who with the Legion sponsor the troop, will be invited to take part in the event, to be held at Legion hall.

This action was taken following a detailed report on activities planned for the troop by Scoutmaster Rodney Collins. The commander of the Twenty-first district, E. A. Lieberman, announced a district meeting Sunday and a dance on Saturday evening, to be held at the Elks' club in Anaheim and invited all Legionnaires to attend.

Commander Earl Fuller and Ray Smith of the Anaheim post were guests at the meeting.

ORANGE BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

ORANGE.—Miss Ada Eckoff entertained her bridge club at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Victor Baden, Wednesday evening. Prizes were awarded Miss Martha Unzelmann and Miss Esther Bandick.

Other guests were Mrs. Ernest Unzelmann, Mrs. Kai Hedemann, Mrs. Ed Schleuter, Miss Dolores Gunther, Miss Lucile Meyer, Miss Myrtle Schafer, Miss Margaret Krause, Miss Helen Drinkgern and Miss Lona Aufdemberg.

Mrs. Schroeder joined us that the real information began to leak out. The major is a member of the Beloved Vagabonds, holds a Congressional medal of honor, Silver Star citation and the order of the Purple Heart. He is also a member of the Legion of Valor, National aid-camp in Veterans of Foreign Wars and has seen service in the Spanish-American, Philippines and World wars.

All of which proves that when you want to find out something, ask the wife. But when it came to asking the major for a real sizzler of a war story he backed up and said, "No. Once a story is published, it's no longer mine. It's gone forever."

Top what's a story-hunting reporter going to do in a case like that? Anyway, we got acquainted, and that's something.

That, however, is probably before they have heard him talk on his "hobby," which is reptiles. The tortoise is the particular specie he collects and at present he has 45. Small ones, which sometimes he carries in his pocket, and large ones, two of which fill a packing case and weigh about 15 to 20 pounds each.

Tortoises from the deserts of Arizona, New Mexico, California, various hinged tortoises from South America, whose shell opens like a door, John Peterson knows each one of them and has carefully kept a record for scientific study.

Many species are almost extinct and can only be found in certain places on the desert. Contrary to general opinion, turtles require care and the right food and water. For the hibernating period, starting about Dec. 15 and continuing for three months, Mr. Peterson has provided for his turtles a shelter of galvanized tin, raised several inches from the ground, one side of which can be raised to admit the sun.

As the tortoise become extinct, the eggs become valuable, and have a definite market value. Mr. Peterson tells of setting 300 eggs, eight hatched and two turtles were raised.

Although John Peterson collects only turtles, he has made a serious study of reptiles, especially of the poisonous variety, and he can hold his audience of one or one hundred, breathless with interest when he can be persuaded to talk about his "hobby."

NEW FIRE HALL IS NEAR COMPLETION
MIDWAY CITY.—Several months ago state and county officials decided that Midway City was the strategic location for a new fire engine which had been purchased to serve this section of the county, if a suitable building could be found to house it.

This aroused the volunteer fire department of Midway City, and they stepped forth as one man, and volunteered to provide the building. C. C. Whitney of the Westminster Memorial Park association, gave a 30 year lease on a lot at the corner of First street and Huntington Beach boulevard. Dr. R. I. Johnson drew the plans for a two-room stucco building, 24 by 50 feet, an engine room and a room to be used for meetings. The fire boys, assisted

SLATE RITES FOR BEACH CLUB'S 28TH BIRTHDAY

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The 28th birthday anniversary of the Huntington Beach Women's club will be celebrated next Tuesday at the clubhouse on Tenth street. The afternoon's festivities will open with a birthday luncheon.

The day will also be "Homcoming Day." All past presidents are invited to return as guests. Mrs. Virginia Davidson, Costa Mesa, will talk on "Women of the White House." A seven-piece string ensemble from Santa Ana, the Huntington Beach Rotary club quartet and a solo by Roy K. Smith will be features of the program.

Mrs. Margaret Colvin will preside at the gathering and brief business session, the first meeting of the new year. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. W. S. Vrooman, chairman; Mesdames Inez Orton, Marion Miller, W. J. McFarland, J. K. McDonald, Archie Lang and Leo Keppel.

rental libraries in Hollywood and Santa Monica before moving to this territory five years ago.

Mrs. Van Steenberg also is active in boys' club work in her district, having formed the Boys' Progressive club, which includes first-year high school students. She also is responsible for the boys' hobby hour, held each Wednesday evening at the library, in which many boys of the community take part.

Below are news stories from her territory covering the week's activities:

PROGRESSIVE CLUB MEETS WITH LEADER
MIDWAY CITY.—The Boys' Progressive club met at the home of the leader, Mrs. Van Steenberg, Wednesday evening. Present were Lavern Ragle, Kenneth Stoneker, Dale Hill, Ted Hansen, Burton Jones, Jimmie Carlin, Harry Potts, Forest Hart and Warren Woodruff.

HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY
MIDWAY CITY.—Barbara Jean Taylor entertained 15 young friends at dinner Tuesday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Taylor, on the occasion of her seventh birthday.

Present were Duane Hurst, Dona Lee Hurst, Jimmy Dale, Billy Keller, Jackie McClurg, Joyce McClurg, Betty Hall, Joan Wootton, Vivian Hart, Marynell Graydon, Doris Taylor, Beverly Logan, Tony Mazza and Donald Hall.

BOOK CLUB MEETING IS SCHEDULED
The Book club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. C. Wilson next Monday, with Mrs. J. A. Houlihan to review Gilbert Seldes' new book, "The Freedom of the Press."

TURTLES HOBBY OF OCEANVIEW MAN
OCEANVIEW.—John R. Peterson, superintendent of the local school, has a "hobby" which makes his friends look at him askance and wonder how John can be interested in such creatures.

That, however, is probably before they have heard him talk on his "hobby," which is reptiles. The tortoise is the particular specie he collects and at present he has 45. SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Arrangements were completed yesterday by the San Juan Capistrano Woman's club, the Riviera of America chapter and other organizations for sponsoring a "president's birthday ball," in the high school auditorium next Thursday evening.

Music for dancing will be furnished by a local orchestra. Tickets for the affair were placed on the table yesterday. Members of the Woman's club will decorate the auditorium, and serve refreshments. Residents of Doheny Park and Dana Point have been invited to participate in the event with local organizations.

SMITH IS NEW CHAMBER HEAD
FULLERTON.—Harry F. Smith, branch bank manager, was unanimously elected president of the Fullerton chamber of commerce at a meeting at noon yesterday. Mr. Smith succeeds Ralph Irwin as president.

Other officers elected were William G. Stedman, first vice president; Walter Muckenthaler, second vice president; Angus McAulay, treasurer, and Harry M. May, secretary.

Five new directors were seated on the board, including R. S. Gregory, Angus McAulay, C. P. Firestone, Howard B. Irwin and Halsey I. Spence.

Plans regarding the annual meeting of the chamber, planned for Feb. 6 at Hughes cafe, were discussed by the directors. Harry Welsh, in charge of ticket sales, announced that a limited number of tickets will be offered, and urged prompt reservation for the event.

DEAN FLINT IS CLUB SPEAKER
ORANGE.—Calvin Flint, dean of Santa Ana Junior college, spoke at the Rotary club meeting Thursday, on the subject, "Propaganda in Russia."

The Soviet government is determined to reach the coming generation with their propaganda, teaching children that their form of government is the only correct, he said. Of the present Russian population, about 78 per cent know nothing of the czarist regime, he added.

The Fullerton Rotary club furnished the program, with Ray Green serving as program chairman, and 12 visitors present. Phyllis Kogler and Philip Herington from the music department of Orange High school, sang.

GET 'DRY HOLE' IN H. B. FIELD
HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Another attempt to produce oil from the flats at the easterly city limits has failed. The Dunlap Oil Company abandoned its No. 2 well on Mills Lane and Val Company lease this week. The derrick was dismantled and the machinery is being taken away.

The Dunlap has well No. 1, located a few hundred yards to the east, on the pump. The well was produced a few years ago and has been on the pump ever since. The second project was drilled as an offset to the first.

by public-spirited citizens erected the building, with nearly all labor donated by men of Midway City.

The money to purchase the building material was contributed by the district, which will receive fire protection. And now the building is completed, and the community gazes with pride on the attractive red-roofed structure. It is something greater than lumber and cement and nails and plaster, it is the spirit of a community.

Money is still needed to complete payments on the building materials, many of which were furnished at cost, but those who have contributed so generously of their time and money feel sure that when residents of the fire district realize what has been accomplished for their protection, the money will soon be available to complete the payments.

YEAR'S PLANS TO BE MADE BY CLUB

Yachting Activities To Be Outlined Feb. 7 At Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH.—Plans for many activities at the Newport Harbor Yacht club for 1936 will be outlined at the first meeting of new officers and board to be held at the clubhouse Feb. 7.

Committees will be named to handle a series of races scheduled for Snowbirds, Stars, six and eight-meter sloops, dinghies and other craft.

Plans will also be made for opening of the yachting season next May at which time it is also planned by the city to have the opening and dedication of the harbor.

Commodore H. W. Rohl will preside at the meeting, which will open with a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

ORANGE P.T.A. GROUP MEETS

ORANGE.—A Fathers' Night program was held by West Orange P.T.A. members Thursday evening with Oscar Milbrat, vice president, conducting the program.

Mr. Milbrat announced a practical demonstration of teaching methods, with instructors at the school teaching a subject to the audience.

Miss Madelyn Walsh, third grade teacher, taught a music lesson; Miss Madelyn Clarkson, fifth grade, demonstrated a lesson in long division; Miss Margaret Ball, second grade, gave an example of physical education work, assisted by the audience; Mrs. Yvonne Tracy, fourth grade, explained the modern method of teaching spelling; Mrs. Florence Nixon, kindergarten teacher, showed how a rest period is conducted and games taught, and Mrs. Lotta Brandon, first grade teacher and principal of the building, gave a writing lesson.

George Sherwood, superintendent of elementary schools, conducted a panel discussion, assisted by Victor Hupp, who spoke on "Aims of Modern Education"; Mrs. Oliver Wickert, "Old Methods of Education"; Leslie Coleman, "Home Work," and Mrs. Leslie Coleman on "Modern Trends in Education."

GROVE P.T.A. TO HAVE SUPPER

GARDEN GROVE.—A 6:30 o'clock pot-luck supper has been planned for a meeting of the Garden Grove High school P.T.A., Monday evening—in the school gymnasium. Ways and means committee members in charge have planned a pie auction as a means of raising money for the student loan fund.

The program to follow will include a talk on "Family Life as Preparation for Social Contact" by Mrs. R. W. Marvin of Anaheim, junior past president of the fourth district. Also a demonstration by students in the English class of Mrs. Eleanor Casady and numbers by the Women's chorus of the adult education class, directed by Leland Green.

H.B. RED CROSS HAS ELECTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Huntington Beach chapter of the American Red Cross was re-organized here yesterday.

Dr. L. F. Whittaker was named general chairman; Mrs. W. H. Johnson, vice chairman, and also chairman of the disaster relief committee; Miss Alice Freeman, school nurse, will assume duties of secretary and Mrs. L. H. Benningsdorf, treasurer. W. H. Calliene, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will head the roll call committee.

MRS. VIRGIL HARMAN HOSTESS AT PARTY
Mrs. Virgil Harman of 317 Mills drive, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Ebel, hosted at a tea this week in her home for Mrs. Julius Blum of Stockton, sponsor of Alpha Gamma chapter of Delta Chi Sigma sorority.

Guests included Mesdames Bonnie Sopher, Marjorie Harris, Dorothy Harbert, Dickie Trogden, Helen Dody and Irene Garrison.

A Circular Needle - Shetland Floss

PATTERN 5420
There isn't a Miss or Matron who can resist the lacy allure of this flattering knitted blouse that's nice for now—or spring! It's easy to knit, too, with but two pattern rows to learn, and you'll find Shetland floss both a colorful and inexpensive medium. Sleeves may be long or short. A skirt pattern's included, too.

In pattern 5420 you will find directions for making the blouse and a plain skirt in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of the blouse and of all stitches used; material requirements.
To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif.

HONOR TO BE PAID BURNS

BEAVER SKINS STILL CASH

Legal Tender For Alaska

Scotland's famous bard, Robbie Burns, will furnish inspiration for the program to be sponsored tomorrow night by the Orange county post of the Canadian Legion and the county Robert Burns society.

"A Night With Robbie Burns" will be held at Veteran's hall, opening with a 6:30 o'clock dinner, to be followed by a special program during the evening.

All county residents of Scotch descent are invited to attend the affair. The program will include music, readings, dances and talks, all on the Scottish theme.

SEATTLE, Jan. 24. (P)—Beaver skins are still legal tender in Alaska, just as they were the standards of exchange throughout North America in pioneer days.

Charles D. Garfield, ex-sour-dough, now secretary of the State Fur Dealers association, told of use of the skins in an interview here.

"They are the gold standard up North. One heavy skin—worth $3 to $5—sets the value for mink, otter, marten, bear, a pound of tobacco, a kettle, a pint of whisky or a half yard of trade cloth."

"The beaver does not use his paddle shaped tail as a trowel," Garfield said, digressing a bit to brand as false a report about the busy little rodent.

"It's an old story, and many people believe he uses his tail to tamp down the mud around his dams and his houses. It isn't so. He uses it as a rudder when swimming and as a counter balance when sitting up on land."

STRANGEST SCOUT TROOP

Its Members Are Lepers

Husband Takes Wife's Teeth to Keep Her Home

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 24. (P)—Mrs. Kathryn Cook, 31, a nurse, complained to court officials that her husband, Charles, made a practice of taking her false teeth in order to keep her home nights.

She was granted a decree for separate maintenance and $10 a week alimony.

TOWNSEND CLUB PLANS OLD-TIME PARTY MONDAY

Back to the "good old days" will go members of Townsend club No. 12 at their meeting Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A prize will be awarded the person bringing the oldest relic. J. W. Walsh of Costa Mesa will speak.

Old-fashioned refreshments will be served.

LICENSE DENIAL STICKS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24. (P)—The state board of equalization which denied the application of Sebastian's Cotton Club of Culver City for a 1936 liquor license, refused yesterday to reconsider its action.

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 24. (P)—Manila has the strangest troop of Boy Scouts in the world.

In the heart of the city, behind high stone walls, the troop, No. 131, of the Boy Scouts of America, goes through drills and exercises like normal scouts. Yet they are far from normal. Behind the high walls is the San Lazaro Concentration hospital for lepers, and every member of troop 131 is a leper.

Before the scout troop was organized at San Lazaro, the younger boys got homesick, and each week three to four would escape. Even barbed wire, erected on the walls, failed to prevent the escapes.

Now, at San Lazaro, there are no fences. There are no barbed wire entanglements. The Scouts seem to be satisfied with their lot, and the last four years not a single escape has been recorded.

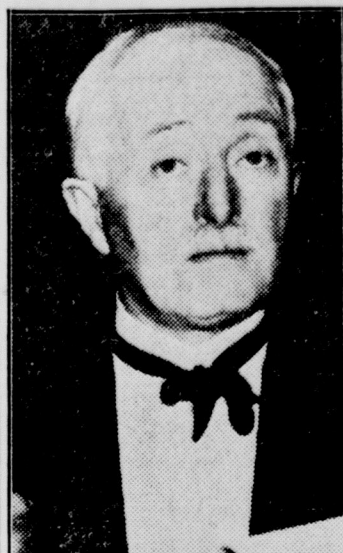

The leper boys in troop 131 range in age from nine to 15 years, and the troop membership averages from 33 to 35 boys.

San Lazaro records show there is a higher percentage of cures among Scout lepers than in any other group.

ACTRESS ENGAGED

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24. (P)—The romance of Mae Clarke of the films and Dr. Frank G. Nolan, Hollywood physician, reached the formal engagement stage today. Weddings plans will be announced later.

CHURCH GIVING AID TO HOME

Members of the Southside Church of Christ here are engaged in a three-weeks' program of giving financial aid to the Ontario Church of Christ home for orphaned children. It was learned today. Each member of the congregation, beginning last Sunday, has been putting aside 2 1/2 cents a day for support of the institution.

The home was started six or seven years ago and now has 31 children in its "family." The youngsters range from 3 years of age to those in their teens, and in addition to being made comfortable in a cheery atmosphere, each has his part of the day's duties to perform. There are cows and rabbits to be fed, housework and gardening to do. Canaries and gold fish are fed by the smaller boys and girls.

The Church of Christ throughout Southern California is helping to foster the Ontario home. Children give their pennies to it. Recently an anonymous donor presented a check for $3500.

Everything possible is done to make the atmosphere of the place like home. In the summer vacation time the youngsters often visit private homes in various parts of the Southland.

MORE ABOUT STAY SINGLE

million, 500 thousand. What a swell time he could have on that."

Leo Tiede, confirmed bachelor, said that in his present state "he liked all the women." "But I'd want to do my own picking," he added. "If they wouldn't let me choose my own candidates, I'd stay single."

Hurrah for Mary

Genial Bert Casteix winked at the adorable Mrs. Casteix and said, "I'd quit the kingship and marry Mary Stoddard."

"Foolishness, don't make me answer that question," protested Postmaster Frank Harwood. "I don't even know what the Princesses look like, and anyhow I'm a married man. You'd better ask me another."

Loren Smith brought legal finesse to the matter. "I think I'd take them all. No," he equivocated. "I'd take a lot of time to think it over and then draw lots. The short match would win."

"In a Good Spot"

Dr. Roy S. Horton declared: "I'd throw up my hands and marry any of them. I think the King is in a pretty good spot just where he is."

Ralph Baker admitted that the King's position really demanded a wife. "I'd let the minister of state decide for me. It wouldn't matter anyhow. And, I could always take week-end hunting trips."

"I'd remain a bachelor," said James Getty from his 31 years of being single. "Married life wouldn't agree with me."

What Women Think

From the feminine angle the question was too much. "If they were the princess chosen, what would they do," I asked.

Mrs. Ruth Rensberger declared, "I'd likely faint. I just wish I were single and eligible though; I'd certainly throw my hat into the ring and it would be a tricky one cooked over one eye."

Mrs. Hunter Leach thought she'd probably say "yes," if she had been reared a princess. "Brought up as an American, I shouldn't like the job, but I suppose if I'd always been trained to accept that point of view I'd think it all right."

Romantic Ideas

Demure Miss Marjorie Hatter had romantic ideas about the situation. "If I loved the King and he chose me, I'd 'yes.' If I didn't, I'd say 'no.' It's hard to determine though; their life is so different from mine."

Chuckling, Mrs. V. C. Shidler declared she'd been married too long to even take a "whack" at the question.

Miss Ethel Coffman pondered. "I suppose it would be quite an honor and high social position. But the responsibilities would be tremendous; it wouldn't allow any personal point of view, and it's too much on a diplomatic plane. I think I'd accept him."

Hi, King! And how does all this leave you?

U. S. WOMAN IN ITALY SCORES ENGLAND IN LETTER HERE

"I say England is shooting the Italians."

An American woman in Italy looks at sanctions and the Italian-Ethiopian conflict in that light, it was revealed today in her letter to Dr. Pery Magill of Santa Ana and Garden Grove. The writer of the letter is Mrs. Caroline Moser of San Remo, Italy, who has lived in that country for 20 years.

Her letter reveals that she believes Mussolini has been a savior to Italy.

"The letter is of interest because it gives an entirely Italian viewpoint, one which we do not seem to contact often here," remarked Dr. Magill.

"It may not be English hands holding the guns, but they are English guns," Mrs. Moser explains in her letter. "And then they shout for peace."

LIVERMORE CASE SET FOR FEB. 18

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 24. (P)—Preliminary hearing for Mrs. Dorothea Longcope on charges of assault with intent to commit murder was continued in justice court yesterday until Feb. 18.

Jesse Livermore, Jr., Mrs. Longcope's son, whom she is accused of shooting, still is in a hospital. The district attorney's office said he will be called as a witness when the hearing is held.

EXPLORER PLANS ECUADOR TRIP

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (P)—Dr. Herbert Spencer Dickey, physician-explorer, is off on another expedition—this time to the uncharted reaches of the Aranjuna river in Ecuador, where native tribesmen shot blow-darts at him in 1917.

Packing up to sail Saturday, Dr. Dickey said he expected the upper Aranjuna to resemble the upper Orinoco, which he described as "a country in the last stages of destruction by erosion—a land laid bare by the very water that was meant to nourish it."

"There are no fish in the bitter water, no birds in the stunted trees, and no other vegetation. Mosquitos an inch long drill you all night, and black flies all days."

GOING TO CHINA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (P)—Anna May Wong, famous Chinese movie actress, embarks today for her visit to China. She was born in Los Angeles.

The comments on the European situation follow:

"Were it not for the policies of Mr. Eden in the English government there will not be war in Europe. We have recently had three wars in the world and Japan is again at war with China."

"The English did not order the League of Nations to do what they have with the Italians. Why? Because they do not happen to affect their interests."

"Fifteen years ago a strong man arrived to pull Italy out of the deep mire of isms—several kinds. Her king would do nothing, but the strong man did, and it is wonderful what he, Mussolini, has done for his people and country. And now, when he needed to safeguard their interests in another part of the country and have a colony there which his people needed very badly, he entered the country, with soldiers, yes, but he did not declare war on them and promised the slaves of the country he would give them liberty and civilization in every form."

Calls Eden Dictator

"Then the dictator—Eden—in the English government said, 'Here, we must watch out. Italia has become a strong country to be watched, so we must put her down before she has taken some of our glory.' And they went to work, with the result that they are fighting women, children, the aged and the sick—not with guns but with sanctions. And it is a devilish war."

"Then they cry about their honor and that they have no selfish interest in trying to keep the Italians out of Abyssinia. They are pouring money and all kinds of death dealing things into Abyssinia to be used against the Italians, so I say England is shooting the Italians. It may not be English hands holding the guns, but they are English guns. And then they shout for peace."

Counting Costs

"They do not seem to be able to count the cost, but the strong man has. You can't imagine what a wonderful organization has been formed to meet the things the league, under command, has imposed upon Italy. Of course I know there are thousands and thousands of English who do not approve of what their government has done, but the masses of the Italian people do not realize that, and they have a strong feeling of hatred for all English. The Italian government has taken the precaution to have the English consulates and their homes under guard, but none of the consulates of the other countries in the league, so the Italian people know who is to blame for it all. And they will not forget, as the English have forgotten, the deep gratitude they owe to the sons of Italia who died fighting with their sons."

Sanctions mentioned in the letter constitute a sort of economic boycott which makes it difficult for Italy to trade with other nations.

"If you should drive from Monte Carlo to San Remo, as you used to do," the letter continues, "you would see the people and everything going on as usual, but you would have to pay over a dollar a gallon for gasoline. The government is doing everything possible to protect us from profiteers. There have been several shops here in San Remo closed, that started on the get-rich-quick plan.

"But I've talked too much of war. So will go on to more pleasant things."

Saint Five Strives to Crash Into Win Column at Alhambra Tonight

Column Left

By FRANK ROGERS

Rugby Tonight

Track Workouts

Saint Cagers

(We goaded Paul Wright, our adjective-slashing assistant, into doing our work today because he is more footloose than his boss and gets around into sports corners that are all dark and deserted by the time we check out for the day. Come in, Paul.)

Whirlwind action of the cyclonic variety characterizes the English game of rugby which Santa Ana Junior college, under the supervision of Alvin Rebohn, introduces at the Municipal bowl tonight.

Pasadena Athletic clubmen, furnishing the opposition, overshadow the host collegians only in experience. The Dons have the speed and enthusiasm necessary to popularize the sport here.

They should develop into first-class rugger by the time an eight-game schedule becomes history on March 13.

Young Rebohn, muscular star of last year's rugby varsity at U. S. C., who was acclaimed one of the best on the Pacific coast by those who marveled at his all-around ability, will hold down the stand-off position with his Dons.

TRACK NOT READY AT POLY FIELD

Awaiting a general overhauling of the Poly field oval, Don and Saint track hopefuls will not assemble for organized drill until Feb. 3. A few weightmen, mainly shot-putters and broad-jumpers, are taking informal workouts at present.

The junior college retains the bulk of the talent that was runner-up to Riverside for the Eastern conference title last year, and with a wealth of incoming material, the outlook is rosy indeed.

The Saints, however, are entertaining no titular hopes in a league that boasts such manpower as annually attracted by the larger schools of San Diego and Long Beach.

FULLERTON HAS NEW BASEBALL UTILITY
Johnny Arrambide, who did right well in athletics at Whittier college, replaces Don Cruickshank as Fullerton High school's baseball coach this spring, according to reports from uncounted. Arrambide joined the Fullerton physical education department last September as Art (Lucky) Nunn's assistant in junior college football. Cruickshank, it is understood, will coach track instead.

SAINT CAGERS FACE STERN OPPOSITION
Exceedingly stern opposition has turned what looked as a successful season into bitter disappointment for Santa Ana High school's basketball varsity.

Reece (Pinky) Greene is recognized as one of the ablest coaches in this neck of the woods, but it requires more than a coach to produce winners. Material—abundant material—is essential.

When will Santa Ana ever possess as much talent as Long Beach and San Diego schools annually draw with their three times as heavy enrollment?

The Saints, it seems, must be content as "little frogs in a big pond." It will be front-page news when—and if they ever dominate Coast league basketball.

DISCOVERY NOT THROUGH YET
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Trainer J. T. "Bud" Stotter scouted reports today that Discovery, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's champion thoroughbred, would be retired to the stud after the Santa Anita handicap.

"Mr. Vanderbilt has no idea of retiring the horse," Stotter said. "It is altogether possible that he will want to give Discovery a rest if the horse should finish in the money in the big handicap. But . . . and Mr. Vanderbilt feels just as I do . . . Discovery is not through with racing after this classic. He has many good races in him and you must remember, it isn't often that such a thoroughbred comes along."

Stotter said Discovery, a favorite in the $100,000 handicap Feb. 22, would make his initial competitive appearance at Santa Anita sometime next week, possibly Saturday.

Games Tonight
Santa Ana at Alhambra
Long Beach at San Diego

Low in standing but high in spirit, Santa Ana High school's basketball charges strive to break into the Coast Preparatory league win column at Alhambra tonight.

Neither Reece (Pinky) Greene's varsity cagers nor Clyde Cook's lightweights have won a conference game, and the prospect of shattering the dreary record is none too bright in competition with the Moors.

The spotlight will be centered on the Long Beach Poly-San Diego melee at San Diego, with the 1936 championship all but hinging on the outcome. The winner will be on the inside track to the coveted title.

Alhambra Improved
Alhambra's young giants were hard-pressed to decision the Saint variety, 31-26, in the first round, but since then Johnny Seixas' Moors have rocked the league by plastering Long Beach's potential champs, 28 to 13.

Alhambra lost two heart-breakers, 31-28 and 26-23, to the San Diego Hills who wrecked Santa Ana, 40 to 18. The host school is favored by at least 10 points.

Santa Ana Lineup
Forwards: Erwin Youel and Larry Tway, center: Ed Eastham and Guards: Sam Lockhart and Bill Flood have been nominated by Coach Greene for starting roles. Bill Milligan, Byron Barnette, Bill Semmacher, Hal Eastham, Bill Musick and Merle Morris will be among those in reserve.

BRUNS, BEARS CLASH TONIGHT
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—California and University of California at Los Angeles meet on the basketball court tonight, both seeking to stay in the running for the Pacific coast conference southern division championship.

The Bears from the north, smarting under three straight losses in the chase, will catch their "little cousins" without the services of Orr Appleby, regular forward. Appleby is recuperating from a minor operation, and will be out of the lineup for some time.

California dropped a pair of games to University of Southern California, and lost a single skirmish by three points last week to Stanford. The Bruins lost a close decision to U. S. C. last week.

DANO TO FIGHT DICK WELSH
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24. (AP)—Two hard-punching featherweights, Dick Welsh of New York and the veteran Filipino, Pablo Dano, headline tonight's card at the Hollywood Legion stadium.

Welsh, who lost a close decision a year ago in Madison Square Garden to Lou Salica, hopes to punch Dano out of the way for a return go with the Brooklyn Italian. Salica is due on the West Coast soon.

Shuffleboard, a game familiar to every traveler on an ocean liner, first was played in England in about 1300 A. D., on hard, dirt-packed courts.

HAMILTON SEES TRACK UPTURN
BERKELEY, Jan. 23. (AP)—California's collegiate track and field stars, rulers of the nation's cinder path, are in for a bigger and better year, Coach Brutus Hamilton of the University of California predicted today.

Hamilton said his own squad will be stronger, but he foresees more powerful teams for his chief opponents—Stanford and Southern California, and attendance will be better.

"The Bears will be better," Hamilton said, "because we have a good many holdover athletes from last year, and in the natural course of events such men as Anderson and Pollock, in the sprints, for example, should be better."

"Second, we have transfers from junior colleges and men from the freshmen squad whose records indicate they will bolster our squad."

Orange at Brea-Clinda
Anaheim at Garden Grove
Newport Harbor at Huntington Beach
Laguna Beach at San Juan Capistrano

Swinging into the second week of their staggered schedule, members of the "Little Ten" will appear in Orange Prep league basketball in every section of the county tonight.

No standout games are carded, although the Orange-Brea and Tustin-Valencia tussles may develop into genuine "hair-raisers." All varsity encounters will follow 7 o'clock skirmishes between Class B fives.

Clarence (Bish) Bishop's Valencia Lions of Placentia, who displayed class in extending Orange, 23 to 27, in an exhibition Tuesday, may trouble Ralph (Bill) Cole's Tilters at Tustin, but Tustin will be the favorite with its high scoring array of Sam Francis and "Bud" Monroy or Vic Linker, forwards; Don Kennedy, center; Paul Francis and Walt Linker, guards.

Valencia Lineup
Valencia, which wilted under a Garden Grove rally, 29-18, last week, will employ Arnold Solesbee and Cruz Rangel at forward, Cliff Hargrove at center, Del Jones and Roy Parker at guard against the Tilters who swamped Laguna Beach 62-25 in the initial round.

Two of the five undefeated leaders, Garden Grove and Anaheim, clash at Garden Grove. Anaheim holds a 34-25 practice game victory over the same Valencia lineup that Garden Grove toppled by 11 points.

Orange at Brea
Handicapped in their opener, Orange's Panthers will return to full strength at Brea. Elmer Smith, the club's first-string forward, has been taken out of quarantine, and Captain Bob Paul and Les Neel have recuperated from minor ailments. Brea's chances look good in view of the club's fine showing at San Juan Capistrano last week. The Wildcats deadlocked the score 30-30 only to lose in an overtime session, 36-31.

Huntington Beach's Oilers, on paper, loom as the winners in their own gym over Newport Harbor's Tans.

Cougars Favored
Laguna Beach must show a complete reversal of form if "Red" Guyer's Sea Gulls expect any success at San Juan Capistrano. Gil Strother's Cougars are standout favorites.

Want Klein Back
"The same thing goes for the Cubs. If they want Curt Davis and are willing to return Chuck Klein to us."

Jimmy's words gave the first confirmation from the Phils of the oft-rumored deals involving Camilli's proposed sale to New York and the transaction involving Davis, Klein and the Cubs.

The reports have had the Giants seeking Camilli to take over Max Eger Bill Terry's place at first base, so that he might hang up his glove and direct things from the bench. Recently, however, Giant officials have said the Phils asked too much for the California youngster.

All On Block
But the Phils' trading plans don't stop there. Wilson emphasized that a suitable offer can have almost any man in his lineup. "I don't know yet who will go," he said. "We'll be at the spring meeting to trade, and we'll see then what will happen."

"We have some likely looking youngsters coming up this year, so we'll have plenty of material."

MRS. MOODY IN NEW YORK
NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, artist, writer and tennis player, thinks her tennis game is stronger now than it was last year when she won the Wimbledon championships for the seventh time but she isn't sure how often she will compete this year.

Here for a brief visit, concerned principally with her activities, she insisted she had not thought of tennis tournaments.

TRACK AT SAN DIEGO

Construction of a San Diego fairgrounds and race track will start in the immediate future, following approval of a $500,000 WPA grant for the project. The plant will be centrally located in the county just north of Del Mar, according to J. E. Franks, president of the Twenty-second Agricultural district, who said plans were virtually complete and that construction would begin without delay.

LUPE LE MON FIGHTS TOP BATTLE

RUGBY MAKES DEBUT HERE TONIGHT
Don Fifteen Will Face Pasadena Clubmen In Bowl At 8 o'Clock

By PAUL WRIGHT
Rugby, the rough, cyclonic game which stirs up the same blessed madness in England that football does in America, takes a bow at the Municipal bowl tonight.

Wearing No. 42 jersey and occupying the responsible stand-off position himself, Coach Al (Trojan) Rebohn leads his Santa Ana Junior collegians against the more experienced Pasadena Athletic clubmen in the first of a series of eight seasonal skirmishes at 8 o'clock.

Until the lightning-fast game becomes more popular in this section, the Associated Students of the junior college plan to hold admission down to 10 cents for adults as well as children.

Scoring is slightly more complicated in rugby than in football. A try (touchdown) is scored when one team succeeds in touching the ball down across the other's goal. This counts three points, and entitles the scorer an attempt at conversion, which counts up an additional two points when the ball sails between the up-rights. A penalty kick counts three points when the ball clears the goal-posts. Field goals also net three.

In rugby, the ball can be kicked but never passed forward. Forwards of both teams huddle in what is called a "scrum," the ball is tossed into the middle of the "scrum," and the game is on.

Officials Named
Glen Ledingham, Trojan regular, will referee, and Paul Herbert has been selected as one of the four judges.

Santa Ana's lineup will be comprised entirely of players with football experience. The Dons will be clad in their red grid jerseys with red shorts.

How the teams will take the field:

There seems to be no dispute over awarding the honor of captain and designation of No. 1 player to husky Lawson Little, San Francisco. There is, however, a feeling in some quarters that the veteran Francis Quimet should be placed in charge for purposes of stability and so that he can impart some of his experience in previous international team matches to the younger players.

Youth Favored
The executive committee will not announce the team selections until its spring meeting in April, but all signs point to a definite trend toward youth for the line-up in sharp contrast to the 1934 contingent which included Quimet, Chandler Egan and Max Marston.

Dividing them by sections, the Pacific coast offers two candidates, the Midwest six, the Southwest four and the East and South three apiece for the nine-man team and the two-day competition against a British side at Pine Valley, N. J., next September.

Also Campbell
In addition to Little the Far West puts up as a candidate Albert (Scotty) Campbell, Seattle. A product of public links, the redheaded Campbell has established himself as one of the ablest match players on the continent although he never has flashed his best form in the national amateur title in 1933 and 1934 and was medalist in the U. S. Public Links championship two years ago.

Johnny Goodman, Walter Emery, Charles (Chuck) Kocsis, Pat Sawyer, Jack Westland and Maurice McCarthy, Jr., are the leading hopefuls on the Western Golf association's roster. Goodman and Emery, the former intercollegiate monarch who pressed Little in the final of the 1935 amateur, are conceded the best chance of landing berths.

FUND CRISIS IS FACING STANFORD

Lower Income, Threat Of Inflation Hurts Palo Alto School

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—A financial crisis for Stanford University is foreseen by Almon E. Roth, business manager, because of decreasing income from endowments and the threat of currency inflation.

He said interest rates on securities held by the university had declined from 5½ and 6 per cent to 3½ and 4 per cent.

If $15,000,000 of securities, subject to call within five years, are taken up and lower interest bearing securities issued, Stanford's income may shrink $300,000 a year, Roth estimated.

This means a 15 per cent reduction in payroll at the university, he added. "It cannot be escaped. The recently increased enrollment cannot make up the difference."

"Then if we have currency inflation the situation would become most critical," Roth added, "as universities as well as hospitals and other endowed institutions in Germany and also in France in the post-war period."

Roth said endowments of the University of California also were currently affected. The institution is state-supported.

Movie Men Need Pampering, Says Nurse Who Spent 11 Years Doctoring the Stars

LIONEL BARRYMORE
'Very Difficult'

NORMA SHEARER
'Sweet and Stoical'

CLARK GABLE
'Easy to Handle'

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24. (AP)—Clark Gable is easy to handle, Lionel Barrymore is difficult, and Norma Shearer is "sweet and stoical about pain."

That is how Peggy Coleman, who sees the stars when they are suffering, sizes up stellar response to the first-aid treatment she administers in her capacity as studio nurse.

For 11 years Peggy Coleman has ministered to the common colds, minor ailments, injuries and sometimes serious accident cases that befall the workers on her lot. If an actor has a headache on the set, they send for Peggy. If an actress fears her cold will show in her eyes, Peggy hastens over to give treatment. She may be treating a propboy's bleeding finger one hour and the next it may be Gable who needs quick repairs.

Lionel Resents Illness
Clark is not only "easy to handle" but among the men one of the easiest. Miss Coleman, who was a first lieutenant army nurse overseas during the war, has treated Gable for everything from an injured leg to ordinary colds.

"He does what he's asked to do and realizes it's for his own good," she says.
But Lionel Barrymore—! "He resents having anyone think anything's the matter with him. Once he fractured bones in his hand, pounding a table in a scene. It was one of our hardest jobs to make him consent to treatment. John, too, resents being thought ill. Ethel is the easiest of the Barrymores to handle. She was always very sweet."

'Wears Out' Headaches
"So is Norma Shearer—and stoical about pain. May Robson doesn't want to be mollycoddled and objects to taking her medicine. William Powell likes to joke and belittle anything that may be the matter with him. Joan Crawford doesn't like to take medicine and would rather wear out a headache. We have to use persuasion."

One of the loudest kicks over "taking his medicine" when he wrenched his hand came, by the way, from California's own Max Baer—but then, as Miss Coleman insists, men need more pampering than women, no matter what the ailment.

On the other hand, she says, men usually are "more appreciative, quicker to obey advice and take treatment," while women "have their own ideas about what's good for them and often insist that the prescribed treatment is wrong."

Psychologist Issues Ten Commandments to Guide You Toward a Perfect '36

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Do you seek a perfect '36?

Dr. Donald A. Laird, head of the psychology department at Colgate university, Hamilton, N. Y., has issued 10 commandments to guide those who "seek to get more zest out of life in 1936."

"1.—Keep rested. Tired people take zest from others as well as themselves. It is amazing what a difference going to bed two hours earlier will make."

"2.—Don't be too ambitious. The world is crowded with people who have literal mental scars, the result of wanting to be bigger shots than they can be or the world needs."

Your Education
"3.—Don't fret about how little book-learning you have. If you keep mentally active and learn a little something new each day, you are an educated man."

"4.—Don't be too conscientious. If you suffer chronic inflammation of the conscience, careful always to do every little thing just right, the very inertia is likely to make you go wrong."

"5.—Don't fight against human nature. Don't expect other people or yourself to be perfect. Shortcomings here and there should be expected and not allowed to steal zest."

"6.—Have a few troubles and a little pain. Those in human experience are like the olives in a meal. After the tart, sour things, everything tastes good."

"Be Your Age"
"7.—Be your age. The things which bring zest change as we get older. Some people try at 50 still to get a kick from life by doing what they did at 20. All they get is a pseudo happiness."

"8.—Don't let others or yourself bluff you into being timid. What we should do is emphasize our few strengths and forget our many weaknesses."

"9.—Get into a job which you like doing. Even if it pays you $10 a week less, its dividends in zest probably will more than repay you."

"10.—Look to the future rather than the past. There is always going to be an upturn and another crest in your zest."

TINY CAMERA DOES BIG JOB Local Man 'Swears By It'

Whether it's a balky spark plug or a pet view of the ocean that needs photographing, Leo Tiede can jerk out his German miniature camera, snap the shot through his two-by-two inch shutter and produce enough details to convict the murderer.

Recently he contrived a flash which he could time easily with snapping of the photograph, facilitating indoor work with the camera.

"It demands exact timing and accurate sighting to take good pictures with the little camera. Not only that, but high grade emulsions are necessary to bring the small negatives up to an 8 by 11 inch or 11 by 14 inch picture," says Mr. Tiede.

More natural pictures result from the shots, the Santa Ana photographer believes. He can ease up within three feet of a person and snap him before he realizes that a picture is about to be taken.

"People get scared when they look into a big box camera and consequently you get poor expression," he explained. "They take this little camera as a joke and it makes taking pictures much easier."

Samples of 11 by 14 pictures, originally taken on the "minnie," revealed a clothing store window of suits, so detailed that stitching on the coat pockets was visible. Mr. Tiede has taken pictures for Acme Photos, "Modern Mechanics," Underwood and Underwood, "Popular Mechanics," Globe Press Photos and scores of other reputable pictures-using agencies.

Though the tiny camera is given many an affectionate pat, Mr. Tiede's only name for it is "my camera."

U. S. REFUNDS $56,122,153 TO LAST YEAR TAXPAYERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Topped by $3,366,666 for Swift and Company, Chicago packers, a list of federal tax refunds showed today that the treasury handed $56,122,153 back to taxpayers in the last fiscal year.

The report was submitted to congress by the internal revenue bureau and made public by the house expenditures committee. It showed that the money was repaid to 147,436 companies and persons from whom the government had collected more taxes than it should have.

In the 1934 fiscal year, $47,194,723 was distributed among 78,378 claimants.

Cover Many Taxes
Refunds cover processing, capital stock, distilled spirits, estate, income, narcotics, sales, silver and tobacco taxes.

In the Hollywood movie colony, Harold Lloyd, bespectacled comedian, received $2217, Clara Bow $1010, her husband, Rex Bell, $1516 and Raymond W. Hatton $718.

Bruce Barton, author, was listed for $562; Anna Gould, Duchess of Talleyrand, for $2492; Elihu Root, Jr., for $514; William B. Langer, former governor of North Dakota, for $563; Edgar A. Guest, poet, for $1699, and Columbia Pictures, $2344.

Refund to Mills
Some of the nation's biggest business and industrial firms were on the list besides a cemetery association, a policeman's benevolent organization and a "polo series."

To Ogden L. Mills of New York, secretary of the treasury under Hoover, the treasury handed back $11,499. Roy D. Chapin of Detroit, who served in the cabinet with Mills as secretary of commerce, got $7306. Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, war-time secretary of war, drew $4603.

J. P. Morgan pocketed $1989. M. E. Coyle, Detroit, head of Chevrolet Motor Company, counted twice for $4223 and $538.

James J. Tunney, one-time heavyweight champion, received $20,903 and $586. Listed at the same Park avenue address with Tunney was William K. Vanderbilt. He got back $2424.

Largest Rebaters
Among the largest rebaters were $2,814,532 to Armour and Company of Chicago; $1,679,979 to John Morrell and Company, Ottumwa, Ia.; $1,225,582 to the Western-Austin Company, Aurora, Ill.; $1,139,920 to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York; $919,293 to the Cudahy Packing Company, Chicago; $603,348 to Rath Packing Company, Waterloo, Ia.; $506,900 to Kingan and Company, Indianapolis packers; $498,471 to Cudahy Brothers, also packers, of Milwaukee; and $494,986 to Neuss, Henslein and Company, New York.

Chairman Cochran (D., Mo.), of the house expenditures committee, said it should be emphasized that diligent scrutiny of taxpayers' accounts resulted in collections in addition to original amounts far in excess of refunds.

PLANNERS OF STATE WILL MEET SOON

Death Valley has been selected as the spot for the next annual meeting of the state association of county planning commissions, of which Dr. Walter Bigham of Anaheim is president. This location was chosen because of the belief that the desert sands will attract a better attendance than the streets and buildings of some city. The unusual scenic spectacles of Death Valley are calculated to draw attendance from throughout the state.

The exact location of the meeting is to be Furnace Creek. The date will be early in March. L. Deming Tilton, consultant for the Orange county planning commission, is assisting in the Southland with arrangements for the gathering, while Hugh Pomerooy, consultant for commissions in the northern part of the state, is making arrangements there.

The Orange county body has been invited to a district meeting of Southern California planners to be held in the courthouse at Riverside Feb. 1. Jules Markel, secretary of the local group, has been delegated to invite the Orange county board of supervisors to attend. The Riverside board will be present also.

CHINESE USHER IN NEW YEAR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Chinatown dropped its cares today, lighted firecrackers, and prepared to usher in the New Year at midnight.

By promising to pay for any damage to property, the Chinese Benevolence Association obtained permission from city authorities to set off the firecrackers.

Almond-eyed maidens of Cathay plucked silvery music from the yan chi'n, and boisterous youngsters, born in the new world, beat on ying ku and other drums.

Only See Gee, the sacred papier mache lion, that used to visit shopkeepers and bring them luck in exchange for coins, was absent from Chinatown's streets. He was put away in a packing case three years ago.

The Chinese New Year observance will continue until Jan. 30.

OFFICIALS START TO BUILD GARAGE ON WRONG LOT

INGLEWOOD, Jan. 24. (AP)—Inglewood's governmental face was red today. Work on a new $21,000 city garage had just started when Arnold Eshman inquired why the structure was being erected on his privately owned lot.

Officials then discovered the lot which had been purchased for the garage adjoined Eshman's property. Shifting of the foundation will be necessary.

'SLEEPER' PLANES TO BE SHOWN IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—The first showing of the new 16-borough "sleeper" planes from the Douglas factory will be made Feb. 1 at the opening of the National Aircraft and Boat show here, officials announced.

The huge airplanes, designed for transcontinental service, seat 24 daytime passengers.

PROPOSE OIL PACT
BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 24. (AP)—Operators in Kern county oil fields are willing to curtail crude oil production if operators in other California fields will do likewise, a field committee reported today. Field committee meetings were held at Taft and Bakersfield this week.

WOMAN FLIER KILLED
ALICANTE, Spain, Jan. 24. (AP)—The English flier, Elizabeth Malcon, 25, was killed yesterday when a wing of her airplane collapsed on the takeoff from the local airport, and the plane crashed.

Captain Trifino Correa of the Brazilian army recently faced disciplinary action from War Minister Joao Gomes Ribeiro because he complained to President Getulio Vargas against the minister's rigorous methods with officers and troops.

EXTENDS RAILWAY

WORKERS WILL HEAR WEST

Speaking on unemployment questions in Orange county, County Supervisor N. E. West, Laguna Beach, will address the Public Works and Unemployed Union meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting, to be held at 1307 West Fourth street, is one of a series designed to lure the educational level as well as the immediate relief level of county unemployed. A. R. Bollen, president of the union, stated.

All persons on WPA projects or direct relief are urged to attend. A special invitation also was extended to those working on sewing projects.

BROWNE TALKS AGAIN MONDAY

The First Methodist church again will be the scene of the Lewis Browne lecture Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, according to announcement today from Mrs. Golden Weston, adult education director.

Doors will be open at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Weston said it is preferable that children do not attend. "Modern Civilization in Germany" will be the subject of Mr. Browne's talk.

BYSTANDER WOUNDED
OAKLAND, Jan. 24. (AP)—Mrs. Annie Sherman of Piedmont was shot in the hand by a stray shotgun slug as Patrolman Brady Miller exchanged bullets yesterday with three men who had just held up the Piedmont branch of the American Trust Company. The robbers escaped by automobile with less than $1000.

NO MORE PAIN AT DENTIST'S New Formula Aids Patient

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Humanity has received an inexpensive formula designed to take the pain out of the process of filling teeth.

Although a fortune possibly was within the grasp of the discoverer, Dr. Leroy L. Hartman, Columbia University scientist, he elected to release the formula to the dental profession without charge as "my humble contribution to humanity."

Dr. Hartman spent 18 years in research work before he found the formula.

Dr. Hartman said it had been tested in 500 cases and proved thoroughly successful. A half-ounce bottle, costing less than $1 suffices for 200 applications.

SEES WEEKLY AIR SERVICE FOR WORLD

New 'Czar' of Nation's 23 Airlines Tells of Future Progress

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Weekly airplane service around the world within the next decade is envisaged by Col. Edgar Gorrill, "czar" of 23 air lines of the United States.

"Planes will fly from London to New York in one jump, reach San Francisco in another span, and land in the Orient after two or three more lastposts," Col. Gorrill said.

"We soon will have transports capable of 260 miles an hour at high speed and 200 miles an hour cruising speed, flying from coast to coast nonstop in nine hours. One week around the world will be possible in the next five or 10 years."

"I believe both the United States and Great Britain will begin air service across the Atlantic within a year."

"Ultimately science will make it possible for air travelers to go from one point to another on this globe, using the great circle route over the Arctic, regardless of weather conditions."

STUDENTS WILL ARGUE R. O. T. C.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Two student representatives will argue on the retention of compulsory military training at the University of California when the board of regents consider the question at their next meeting March 24 in San Francisco.

The regents have instructed President Robert Gordon Sproul to select the undergraduate pair to give favoring and opposing views.

Dr. Sproul reported student executive councils at Los Angeles and Berkeley had petitioned that R. O. T. C. be placed on an optional basis, while fraternities and other groups had demanded that compulsory training be retained.

INFORMAL POSES OF COLONEL KNOX

While not on the stump or busy with the affairs of a newspaper publisher, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, aspirant to the Republican presidential nomination, likes to settle back with his pipe while Mrs. Knox reads to him, as shown at top. Lower left, he studies a knotty problem, and (right) a big laugh over a friend's quip. (Associated Press Photo)

Alma Whitaker, society girl in the little town of Burntwood, falls in love with Johnny Anthony, a nobody who turns up from nowhere and becomes golf pro at the country club. He seems to be in love with her, but because of some mysterious secret in his past, flings up a barrier between them. When Alma's father, Lawson Whitaker, suffers a breakdown as a result of financial difficulties, and disappears, Johnny finds him and does all in his power to help Alma, but still draws the line at offering her his love. Alma's rich and dominating Aunt Harriet Falken takes Alma and her father into her home and tries to force Alma into marrying Sig Borndike, who could have saved her father from bankruptcy, but Alma witheringly rejects him.

CHAPTER XVI

"You're crazy!" Aunt Harriet stormed. "Absolutely crazy! I might have known you'd do something insane. And now, pray, just what do you propose to do, Alma?" She glared at her niece.

It was the next morning, and she was in Alma's bedroom.

"Here I manage to bring Sig Borndike back here, and give you a beautiful opening, and instead of appreciating your opportunity, you deliberately quarrel with him, and insult him!"

"Would you trust my happiness to that man after knowing what he did to my father?" Alma blazed.

Aunt Harriet shrugged impatiently.

"We've been all over this before, Alma! And now, may I ask you just what you intend to do? You can scarcely hope to continue being a pampered, sheltered social butterfly. I've barely enough to get along on myself."

"Don't worry," Alma declared. "I'll find some way of taking care of myself. But I'm certainly not going to marry Sig Borndike, whatever happens!"

"It's that golf tramp at the back of it all!" stormed Aunt Harriet.

Alma laughed bitterly. "On the contrary, Johnny Anthony has made it very plain that he's not going to ask me to marry him. So you see," she added wearily, "you were wasting your time in not letting him speak to me when he phoned."

"You are being very unreasonable, Alma!" her aunt said coldly.

R. F. C. POSTS CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Five reappointments as directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were confirmed yesterday by the senate. They are: Jesse H. Jones of Texas, chairman; Charles B. Henderson, Nevada; C. B. Merriam, Kansas; Frederic H. Taber, Massachusetts; and Charles T. Fisher, Jr., Michigan.

All will serve two-year terms ending Jan. 22, 1938.

12 BILLIONS IN PENSIONS PAID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Since 1790, the United States has disbursed for pensions and compensation a total of $12,185,682,752.97.

General Frank Hines, veterans' administrator, has so advised a house appropriations sub-committee.

Hines said pensions or compensations are now being paid to 857,429 veterans and their dependents of six wars in which United States troops have engaged. Of this total 601,750 are living veterans and 255,679 dependents.

Four dependents of the war of 1812 are still on the pension rolls. No veterans of the Mexican war are listed, but 282 of their dependents are receiving government funds.

Remodeled Cafe To Reopen

A noticeable improvement catches the eye of patrons and the public generally as they enter or pass by the Santa Ana cafe at Third and Main streets. For several days the cafe has been undergoing extensive repairs, and will reopen for business Saturday. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moralece, proprietors, will welcome patrons to the remodeled cafe, and Mr. Moralece assures the public of a continuation of the same high-grade food quality, featuring special dinners. The Santa Ana cafe has established an enviable reputation for food, price and courtesy.

Women Students Name Officers

Mary Lou McFarland, daughter of the Rev. O. S. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland, 303 Orange avenue, was named president of the Associated Women students of Santa Ana Junior college at an election held yesterday.

Miss McFarland, social commissioner of the associated students for the past semester and a member of Spinster and several honorary societies, defeated Helen Wilke, a member of Las Meninas, for the position. Other officers elected were Mary Paxton for vice president winning over Adelia McCreary, and Louise Sexton for secretary-treasurer, who defeated Ruth Kilbourne of Orange. Both candidates for vice president are members of Las Gitanas, and Miss Sexton served as secretary of the associated students during the past semester.

Officers who have served for the past semester are Dorothy Coe, president; Eunice Spicer, vice president; and Helen Wilke, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Robert Northcross is faculty advisor for the organization. Activities of the A. W. S. are a tea given for new women students, a mothers' tea, a women's choice dance to be held Feb. 29, and an annual hi-jinks.

This semester, officers will take charge of furnishing the women's lounge with the money provided for the purpose from proceeds of Penny Fair.

NEW CABINET FOR FRANCE IS FORMED BY SENATOR SARRAUT

PREMIER IS OF RADICAL PARTY

Ministry List Is Given President Lebrun
For Approval

PARIS, Jan. 24. (AP)—Senator Albert Sarraut was successful today in his attempt to form a new cabinet for France—the 101st government of the third republic. Sarraut, who already has served his country as premier, is a veteran of the Radical-Socialist party.

The cabinet he has formed is a transition body to keep the government running until the parliamentary elections which will be held in April or May.

Also to Be Minister
In the list of nominees he submitted to President Lebrun, Sarraut took over the ministry of the interior himself, together with the premiership.

It was officially announced that the new cabinet is as follows:
Premier and Minister of the Interior—Albert Sarraut.

Minister of State Without Portfolio—Joseph Paul-Boncour.

Agriculture—Paul Thellier.

Merchant Marine—Louis de Chappedelaine.

Foreign Affairs—Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

Finance—Marcel Regnier.

Commerce—Georges Bonnet.

Public Works—Camille Chautemps.

Navy—Francis Pietri.

Communications—Georges Mandel.

Air—Marcel Deat.

War—Gen. Louis Felix Maurin.

Labor—Ludovic Oscar Frossard.

Education—Henri Clerneux.

Colonies—Jacques Stern.

Justice—Yvon Delbos.

Pensions—Rene Besse.

Health—Louis Nicolle.

Advantage to Radicals
While this ministry is generally considered a stopgap at best, it gives the radicals an advantage in the forthcoming election of a new chamber—provided, of course, it lasts through the campaign.

The most important change from the old cabinet was the choice of Flandin as head of the foreign office to replace Pierre Laval, former premier and foreign minister, whose policies, including the cautious treatment of Italy over the Ethiopian war, caused the fall of his government early this week. The cabinet is slightly more leftist than that of Laval's.

DRUNK DRIVING SUSPECT NABBED

The law yesterday took into consideration the case of Albert A. Allen, 33, of 617 East Pine street, Santa Ana, who was arrested by Santa Ana police and charged with drunk driving following a traffic accident at First and Ross streets.

Allen was assertedly the driver of a car which collided with a second car driven by Helen M. Burns, 25, of 1209 West Camille street. Mr. Allen and Mrs. Allen were injured in the collision.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

OLD-CLOTHES MAKER

Fred Waring's task in the Hollywood movie studios is to make new clothes old, and old clothes older. To give the movie clothes their threadbare appearance he dumps the garments into washing machines and washes them for days at a time. He roughens shoes with files and sandpaper. Hats are held against a buffer to create worn spots. When wrinkles are ordered, the clothes are rolled into bundles and put into a press overnight. Dirty clothes—such as pirates and miners wear—are in reality clean clothes spotted with paint, sprinkled with fuller's earth and rubbed with lamp black.

KEATON'S EX-MATE WEDS IN MEXICO

SAN DIEGO.—Mrs. Mae Keaton, divorced wife of Comedian Buster Keaton, and Sam Fuller, Hollywood publicist, were honeymooning across the Mexican border today. Married yesterday at Tia Juana, they planned to stay several weeks at Ensenada, on the Lower California coast.

FOUR OFFICERS HELD IN ROBBERY RING

LOS ANGELES.—Four police officers and six other men were under arrest today in connection with an alleged $500,000 robbery and forgery ring. Irving Stoller, mack, Triunfo postmaster, was under indictment on three counts of receiving stolen property in the case. Earl W. Ford, patrolman assigned to the police chief's office, was the fourth officer taken into custody. He was booked yesterday on suspicion of burglary. Other patrolmen held are Charles Clark, Ralph Savage and J. T. Acker.

STERILIZATION WITNESS IS PRAISED

Heiress Complimented On Testimony By Hearing Judge

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (AP)—A judge who complimented Ann Cooper Hewitt on her bearing as a witness will be called upon next week to decide whether criminal warrants shall be issued against those involved in her bizarre sterilization.

For almost an hour, the 21-year-old heiress, rated as only 11 years mentally by a city psychologist, answered questions concerning the operation which resulted in her filing a $500,000 damage suit against her mother and two doctors.

The girl replied with an emphatic "most certainly not" when asked if she would have given her consent to the operation if asked for it. She said she was led to believe it was to be an appendectomy.

'Wonderful Witness'

"You are a wonderful witness," said Municipal Judge Sylvian J. Lazarus at the close of the unique hearing. "It isn't often we have people here who testify as clearly and as intelligently as you have."

The hearing, called upon a rarely used California law, was to determine whether criminal charges should be filed against Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter, the girl's mother; Dr. Samuel G. Boyd, who performed the operation Aug. 18, 1934, and Dr. Tilton E. Tillman, diagnostician in the case.

Decision Tuesday

Miss Hewitt's attorney would not let her sign mayhem complaints, and the district attorney would not issue them without her signature, so the matter was put up to the court by the prosecutor.

Judge Lazarus said he would announce his decision next Tuesday. Miss Hewitt, daughter of the late inventor, Peter Cooper Hewitt, charged her mother engineered the operation so she could forever control the Cooper fortune because her daughter would be childless. The estate has been estimated to total all the way from $1,300,000 to $10,000,000.

RIDING STABLE OPENED HERE

W. D. Stewart announced today the opening of a new riding academy at West Fifth and Mountainview streets, just two miles west of the heart of Santa Ana. The new academy will feature high-class English-saddle and jumping horses for hire, as well as private lessons for men, women and children. There also are accommodations for boarding of privately owned horses.

Mr. Stewart comes to Santa Ana after a lifelong experience of riding academy operation, having formerly owned and operated the Hollywood Riding stables, situated in the fashionable Hollywoodland section near Los Angeles; the Oakmont Riding stables, near Glendale, and the Cabrillo Riding academy in San Diego.

FIGHT LOOMS OVER STATE LAW HERE

Attorney Contends Boy Sent To Preston By Illegal Method

The legality of commitments of juveniles to state schools, was scheduled to be under attack before Superior Judge James L. Allen this afternoon.

N. D. Meyer, attorney for Numa Marlborough, 20, said today he would contend that sentencing of his client to the Preston School of Industry for two years on Jan. 10 was illegal. The attorney said he would argue that before such a sentence could be imposed, Marlborough should have been made a ward of the court and the court should have been sitting as a juvenile court. This is required by law, said Mr. Meyer, and he planned to argue that the law was not complied with.

Raises Age Question

Mr. Meyer also said he would contend it is illegal to commit a defendant to a state school for a period extending beyond his twenty-first birthday. Marlborough was sentenced for two years, but will be 21 next May.

On Jan. 11, 1935, Marlborough was granted five years probation in connection with a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. One condition of probation was that he stay out of California. He returned here last Dec. 11 and was arrested for violation of probation. He then was committed to Preston.

It was expected that the district attorney's office, represented by Deputy District Attorney James Walker, would contend this afternoon that Marlborough was made a ward of the court and that the court was sitting as a juvenile court when the commitment was made. He was expected to argue that the judge does not need to stop and inform the world that he is sitting as a juvenile court when a juvenile matter comes before him. Nor does the court have to announce specifically that the defendant has been made a ward of the court, according to this theory of the law.

Seeks Boy's Release

Although the commitment does not make the specific allegations, the findings on their face show that the boy was made a ward of the court, sitting as a juvenile court, Mr. Walker was expected to argue. If the court was dealing with a juvenile matter, then that fact alone establishes that it was sitting as a juvenile court and that the defendant was made a ward of the court, Mr. Walker contends.

The issue on which today's argument was scheduled to arise was an attempt by Mr. Meyer to secure release of Marlborough through habeas corpus proceedings.

WPA CONCERT ON TONIGHT

A program of popular classics will hold musical attention of those who gather at Julia Lathrop assembly room tonight at 8 o'clock to listen to the symphony concert of the Works Progress administration orchestra under the baton of Leon Eckles, director.

The orchestra will open with Offenbach's "Orpheus in the Underworld." A three-selection series will follow with Lack's "Idilio," Thome's "Under the Leaves" and Mah's "Es War Einmal."

LARGE GIFTS OF 31 CARS TAGGED STOCK MADE AFTER 2 A. M.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Stock gifts of about $1,750,000 by W. N. Reynolds, Winston Salem, N. C., a director of R. I. Reynolds Tobacco company, were made public by the securities commission today.

The gifts, made in November, 1935, consisted of three parcels of 10,000, 20,000 and 100 shares of Reynolds tobacco class B common stock. The recipient was not disclosed; the commission does not require that such information be filed.

Another large gift of stock was made by Roy D. Chapin, Detroit, officer of Hudson Motor Car company. He gave 70,000 shares of that company's common, of a current market value of around $1,058,000.

The purpose of the ordinance which prohibits parking on streets between 2 a. m. and 5 a. m. is to keep the streets clear for the sweeper which each night cleans the streets of rubbish. According to Chief of Police Floyd Howard, officers will continue to tag cars until the public is educated or made aware of the fact that such a law exists.

Nevin's "Country Dance" and Luigini's "Ballet Egyptien" will be given, concluding with Savino's "Fireflies."

LOCAL LEGION READY FOR BONUS

Applications Will Be Taken By Vets If Measure Passed

Ten men busy at taking applications for the soldiers baby bonus bills will be the scene in Veterans' hall, provided the measure, vetoed by President Roosevelt, is passed over his veto by congress.

That was the decision made at the meeting of American Legion post No. 131 in Veterans' hall last night. Harry Edwards, director of county welfare for veterans, led a discussion on making application for the bonus and proposed that the organization of 10 men, picked from unemployed Legionnaires of the county, be formed.

With jubilant gestures, Charles Swanner, who was commander of the post during erection of Veterans' hall, burned the private note of $2700, which was paid this month. The federal loan for construction of the building is the only debt remaining on it.

Sunday, the 21st district meeting will be held at the Anaheim Elks' club, with Department Commander Dan Emmett and other celebrities attending. Saturday night a dance will be open to all Legionnaires in the clubhouse.

The Legion Drum corps has scheduled a hi-jinx for March 7 with the possibility that Joe E. Brown, movie comedian, will be present.

DRUNKENNESS ON DECREASE HERE, POLICE REPORT

It may be that Santa Ana has gone on the "water wagon." At least figures compiled from the daily police reports indicate a noticeable decrease in the number of arrests made for drunkenness this year over the total for the same period last year.

To date this year there have been 27 persons arrested by Santa Ana police for drunkenness. The tally for the same period last year was 48.

Easy To Make This Marian Martin Frock Your 'Winning Number'

9640

This delightful, young frock's the sort that women love, and other women would give anything to own. If they but knew, it's well within the reach of every woman who makes her frocks for its minimum yardage requirement, and extreme simplicity of its easy-to-make features endear it to matrons, business women and co-ed.

A variation of the popular shirt-maker, its roomy action pleats are as practical for the sports enthusiast as they are for the one who bends over a desk all day, while a neckline that's worn either open or closed, is varied enough to suit every taste. A frock, too, that has many an exciting fabric possibility, so choose necktie silk, shirting, challis or jersey. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9640 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Send for our new spring pattern book, and take the guesswork out of planning and making your new clothes! Its many smart, practical designs will show you new ways to look your charming best, new ways to use the latest spring fabrics, new ways to stretch your budget. Special flattering designs for stout figures. Yarns for the whole family. Price of book 15 cents. Book and pattern together, 25 cents.

Send your order to The Journal, Pattern department, 117 E. Fifth street, Santa Ana.

Military Ball Changed to Feb. 20

"Eighth annual military ball—Feb. 20."

That was the decision made by the Citizens' committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg Tuesday evening.

Regularly held on Washington's birthday, the ball, sponsored by Disabled American Veterans, has been advanced two days for the convenience of patrons. Long business hours on Saturday and counter attractions might have conflicted with success of the ball, the committee felt.

'Vision' Is Theme for Pierians Knits To Be Modeled At Party

With "Vision" as their theme for the day, Pierian Literary club members enjoyed a varied poetic diet yesterday afternoon when they were entertained in the home of Mrs. Jennie Crawford, 829 South Ross street.

Mrs. George Bond presented a whimsical poem, "Daydreams." Mrs. J. D. Watkins' poetic contribution was "Whither, My Soul?" "Visions" reflecting the day's theme admirably, was read by Mrs. Henry Guthrie, who offered two poems.

Mrs. Belle Davis, a guest for the day, submitted a charming description of a life, entitled "Color," and written by her daughter.

"A Vision," a beautiful Christmas miracle story, was presented in verse by Mrs. Earl P. Ladd. "Faulty Vision" and "A Prayer" were offered by Mrs. Hugh Gerard.

Mrs. Crawford read "Material Vision."

A musical touch was added by a guest, David Craighead, who played a group of piano solos. His teacher, Mrs. Bessie Nalle, daughter of the hostess, told impressions gleaned in a recent visit to the home of the loved composer, Carle Jacobs Bond, in Los Angeles. She gave as musical readings a group of Mrs. Bond's songs.

Mrs. Davis assisted in serving a chicken salad course with hot rolls, coffee and dessert course after the program.

Mrs. Nalle will fête the group at its next meeting in her home, 814 South Birch street, when "Valentines" will be the appropriate theme of the program.

WELFARE REPORT ISSUED BY CHURCH SOCIETY

Helping somebody has been the credo of the Welfare society of the Seventh Day Adventist church during 1935, a glimpse at the following report reveals.

Contributions were received from friends outside the church to aid the fund. The dispensing kitchen is at 805 North Sycamore under direction of Mrs. Carrie Burns and Mrs. Jewell Hinkle.

Applicants were investigated before the food was distributed. The report was made at a meeting last Tuesday evening.

Following is the report: One hundred and twenty-five meetings, 836 present and 21 visits, 1950 hours worked, 833 persons helped, $148.88 value of food, 2106 pieces of clothing, 261 garments made or repaired, 28 quilts made and given away, $34.98 received from sales, 34 quarts of canned goods, 430 pounds of apples, 2 pounds of potatoes, 2146 rolls, 1,066 loaves of bread, 292 sandwiches, 120 doughnuts, 10 cakes, 180 cinnamon rolls, 3 pies, 20 cup cakes, 8 glasses of jelly, 178 quarts of fruit, 335 pounds of sugar, 45 cans of milk, 60 pounds of oleo, 84 pounds of apples, 60 pounds of walnuts, 378 pounds of potatoes, 20 pounds of pop corn, 36 cans of pumpkin, 10 pounds of prunes, 50 pounds of green beans, 36 pounds of squash, 3 quarts of pickles, 2 sacks of oranges, 3 sacks of wood grain, 2 cookies, 100 pounds of puffed wheat, 68 bunches of vegetables, 100 pounds of sweet potatoes, 24 Thanksgiving boxes and 12 Christmas boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gerrard entertained in their lovely home on Victoria drive Tuesday evening with a dinner party complimenting Mrs. Sallie Renssion and her daughter, Miss Venus Renssion, on the eve of their return to their home in Los Angeles following a two-weeks' visit in the Gerrard home.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gerrard (Helen Switzer), Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, the Rev. J. T. Stivers and the hosts' children, Myron, Myrtis and Jack Gerrard of Santa Ana, and Ray Stahl and his mother, Mrs. Stahl, of Orange.

Orange county members of the California Federation of Women's clubs have checked their calendars on Feb. 7 for the Anaheim Ebell past president's day program in Anaheim.

Mrs. E. E. Smith, state federation chairman of literature, is planning a playday program for the day, with club sections taking part.

More than 150 board members and other county Ebell club members are expected to be present. A luncheon is to be served under direction of Mrs. R. N. Ashley.

Mary Stoddard

Dad's Pipe Has Sent Off Smoke Into Crannies Of An Otherwise Peaceful Home

By MARY STODDARD

Dad's pipe! It's disrupting a whole household—when he enters the room, the family must move out, so two of his daughters claim in a letter seeking advice about how to eliminate this dreadful affliction.

They say they've talked kindly, argued, burned the old pipe only to come face to face with one more ancient.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Please don't think us too ridiculously silly, but something's got to be done about Dad. Our trouble is that Dad has a pipe—not just an ordinary pipe—he has dozens of these, but a special one—one that he has smoked steadily for years. He carries it with him night and day and it has such a vile odor it is revolting.

Every time he comes into the room with that beloved pipe the rest of us have to run. And it is embarrassing to have a dirty, smelly home for one's friends.

Please don't think us unreasonable, but this has been going on for years, almost. Mother has hidden his special, boiled another and burned still others, but he always makes a grand comeback with one that's worse than any of the previous ones.

Tell us, Miss Stoddard, what would you do? Please don't say, "Have a kindly chat with him." We have, to no avail. We've also had some pretty terrible arguments, which do no good.

He insists a pipe is valueless unless it's "broken in," so—there's our problem. Can you and will you help? Gratefully,

TWO DAUGHTERS.

I can sort of picture your happy home—your kindly, indulgent dad, who has worked years to give you that home and the things you desire. His ever-faithful companion, uphill or down, has been his pipe.

There'll come a time when "dad, dearest of all men," has lit his last pipeful of tobacco. Then you can take the dreadfully smelly pipe and all the others and burn them, for dad won't be needing them.

I don't know if you understand. But I'll tell you if my dad were here and he wanted a dozen smelly pipes, I'd see that he got them and, if the friends didn't like it, they could just keep right on going the other way.

With their skating reputation at stake, members of the Silver Wings Skaters' club of Santa Ana will through the Rollerdom at Culver City tonight and cut many a fancy figure.

Others are to make the trip with the club members, who are Thelma Roy, Alvira Armstrong, Berge Flood, Donald Englehart, Vivian Rawls, Archie Mossler, Charles McCoskey, Marilyn Wright, Jim Morlock, Harry Miner, Barbara Martin, Jewel McIntyre, Grant Cornwall, Norie Jones, Dale Heiny, Grace Trapp and Robert White.

Marie Gothard addresses Altrusa.

A realtor's job was reviewed by Mrs. Marie Gothard before members of Altrusa club at their luncheon meeting yesterday noon in the Rossmore cafe.

Sunday afternoon the group has been invited to a tea at the home of the state promoter, Mrs. Winola Cooper of Altadena. The week-end of Feb. 22-23, they are invited to be guests of the San Diego club at the Pine Hill lodge, San Diego.

MOTHERS' CLUB TO SERVE DINNER

Turkey dinner is the chef d'oeuvre slated for the American Legion Mothers' club meeting next Monday at Veterans' hall.

An all-day meeting has been planned. Regularly, pot-luck luncheons are served, but this dinner is to be served. Guests, who are often welcomed to the luncheon, will be excluded from this meeting, to insure adequate preparation of the luncheon.

55 Years Wed, Shepherds Celebrate

Happily married for 55 years, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Shepherd gathered their family around them yesterday in their home at 25 East Chestnut street for a noonday dinner party and celebration.

In charge of the event are Mesdames George Cavenkamp, George Nash, Mary Reelands, L. M. Banks, J. A. Crawford, J. P. Murphy, F. F. Mead, Ralph Mosher, C. V. Davis, Robert G. Tuthill, C. J. Klatt, H. J. Lippitt and the Misses Bertha and Rose Klatt.

In 1915, the couple came to Santa Ana and established residence in their present location. They have a host of friends in Santa Ana.

Yesterday was also Mr. Shepherd's seventy-eighth birthday anniversary. Assembled at the dual celebration luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Shepherd, a son and wife, from Tomah, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shepherd and family, Orange; Mrs. Bessie Lerud, Pomona; and J. J. Cox, Howard, S. D.

Messages were sent from children unable to be present. They were Mrs. Minnie Hall, LeRoy, Mrs. John Swanner, Wichita Falls, Tex., and Howard Shepherd, Oregon.

Throughout the afternoon friends called to extend best wishes to the long-wedded couple.

SILVER SKATERS TO CUT FANCY FIGURES

With their skating reputation at stake, members of the Silver Wings Skaters' club of Santa Ana will through the Rollerdom at Culver City tonight and cut many a fancy figure.

Others are to make the trip with the club members, who are Thelma Roy, Alvira Armstrong, Berge Flood, Donald Englehart, Vivian Rawls, Archie Mossler, Charles McCoskey, Marilyn Wright, Jim Morlock, Harry Miner, Barbara Martin, Jewel McIntyre, Grant Cornwall, Norie Jones, Dale Heiny, Grace Trapp and Robert White.

Bride-Elect Is Initiated by Sigma Theta

Miss Jeanette Warhurst, who is soon to be a bride, was the center of interest on another count Wednesday evening when she was formally initiated into Sigma Theta sorority.

Initiation took place formally at a dinner party in the home of Misses Barbara and Louise Rurup on West Washington avenue. Valentine appointments were used on the small dinner tables.

After initiation, bridge was played and a white elephant gift exchange effected.

Plans were discussed for a formal dance to be soon at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles.

Others present were Misses Virginia Curry, Barbara Davis and Marie Lewis, pledges, and Mrs. William Jerome, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Irwin and Misses Loretta Spangler, Harriet Gruettner, Betty Wiswall, Bernice Summers, Helen Spangler, Kay Cornwell, Gladys Marguerat, Ruth Owens and Jeanette Lewis.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

What do you consider one of the "prime evils" in making a marriage unsuccessful?

Mrs. George Braun: I think, that people aren't forgiving enough. If people are married, they should stick together. Always, things happen that make trouble, but people should reason it out, forgive each other and forget. If they don't, the troubles keep on growing and they become unhappy.

Mrs. W. B. Hutton: In most cases where a marriage is unhappy, it's because of selfishness. Selfishness causes so many other things, like being a nagger, not overlooking small things and seeing the good things about the other person, and making mountains out of molehills.

MRS. A. D. HOENSHEL HAS MOTHERS' CLUB

Mrs. A. D. Hoenshel, 701 South Garvey, was hostess Wednesday to the Mothers' club of the First Congregational church at a paper bag luncheon.

Mrs. Joe Harless, new president, officiated for the first time. Mrs. Georgia Bradley, retiring president, was presented a gift from the organization.

Layettees were made during the afternoon.

Mrs. Perry Schrock, 205 West Twentieth street, will be hostess at the next meeting.

A processional silver cross brought from Abyssinia by Sir Robert Napier's expedition in 1867 was sold for $100 in London.

SUGGESTS:

LITTLE TRICKS WITH CUP CAKES

Today I am going to talk about cup cakes which sounds, I know, like a trifling little thing that could be disposed of in much less time. There are so many, many ways of using them and they adapt themselves so readily to all hours of the day, and to parties—especially children's parties—that they're really well worth talking about!

Cup cakes bake so quickly and cool so quickly that we may frost them almost immediately. I want to give you a recipe that makes them so quickly you will be astonished! And the texture is so smooth and even that I feel sure you'll be delighted with these little sponge-cake cup cakes.

HOT MILK CUP CAKES

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup hot milk
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup Drifted Snow "Home-Perfect" Flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract.

Beat eggs and sugar together until foamy. Melt butter in milk and blend with eggs. Sift flour, measure and sift again with salt and baking powder. Add to first mixture, beating only until smooth. Add flavoring, and fill greased and floured tiny cup cake pans 3/4 full. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, for 15 minutes. Remove from pans and cool. 3 dozen tiny cakes.

Ways to Use Them
And after you have them, here are some of the interesting ways in which you may use them. Split them in two, un-iced, fill with ice cream, making a sandwich, pouring hot fudge or hot caramel sauce over them, or perhaps a crushed canned fruit.

Or individual shortcakes may be quickly and easily made by serving crushed sweetened canned fruit or rhubarb over these little cup cakes and topping with whipped cream.

Or we may revive the old dessert, cottage pudding, using these small sponge cakes and serving hot butterscotch or chocolate sauce over them.

If you want a de luxe cake for a birthday or very festive occasion, it may be built with these little cup cakes by arranging several layers of small cakes, one on top of the other, making each layer a little smaller in circumference than the one below it, until the top layer consists of only one cup cake. I made one last week for my little niece, and it looked like a pastel Christmas tree with the tiny candles on the outside ring of each layer. I used pink and white frosting and candles, but of course any color scheme may be used.

Chocolate Burrs
But I think the best thing of all to do with these little cakes, is to transform them into little chocolate burrs! First, a cooked orange filling is spread thinly all over the cup cakes and then they're rolled in chocolate coconut (made by blending shredded coconut with a little melted sweet chocolate). These may be served with ice cream or a fancy gelatine dessert for a small girls' party. And they're equally attractive for your bridge luncheon or family dinner dessert. Here is the recipe for the Burr Frosting.

BURR FROSTING
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup Drifted Snow "Home-Perfect" Flour
Few grains salt
1/2 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter
1 square sweet chocolate, melted (1 oz.)
1 cup shredded coconut
Mix sugar, flour and salt. Add orange juice and cook 15 minutes, over boiling water. Remove from heat, blend in lemon juice and butter. Cool and spread on top and sides of cake. Dredge cakes with coconut which has been thoroughly mixed with chocolate.

MOVIES WILL BE USED IN LECTURE

A lecture with moving pictures to illustrate will be given Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. by a representative from the Hemphill Diesel school.
The talk is being sponsored by the Amateur Science and Art club of Santa Ana, and is open to the public.

Nudist Shows May Be Rivals At San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 24. (AP)—Exposition nudist shows may be put on a competitive basis this year, it was indicated yesterday when the management of California Pacific International Exposition referred protests of the San Diego Braille club and others to Stanley R. Graham, nudist show owner, at Dallas, Texas.
Graham was thought to be negotiating with the management of Texas Centennial for a nudist show there rivaling the Zoro nudist colony which enjoyed a long run at the San Diego fair last year.

NEW EXPLOSIVE MADE CHEAP

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 24. (AP)—Prof. Edward Bartow, of the University of Iowa, explained today a new economical process for manufacture of inositol, a compound which can be made into an explosive more powerful than nitroglycerine.
Professor Bartow, president of the American Chemical society, said he believed the compound could be produced for commercial use from waste materials in the manufacture of corn products. Inositol looks and tastes like sugar.
"We now have about 25 pounds of inositol which was produced at

BILL DUNSTON IS ELECTED J. C. VICE-PRESIDENT

Bill Dunston's winning of the vice-presidency yesterday at Santa Ana Junior college concluded student body elections for this semester.
Primary elections had already awarded the president's post to Al Markel, the secretary's job to Frances Was, and the treasurer's work to John Haskell.
a cost of $1 a pound in the laboratories here," he said.
"The price of inositol for use by chemists and bacteriologists has been between $400 and $500 a pound."
The compound was extracted in granulated form from water used in the manufacture of corn starch.

ITALY BUYING OIL TANKERS

ROME, Jan. 24. (AP)—Informed sources said today Italy is hastily buying tankers to prevent an indirect oil embargo through British and Scandinavian control of ships.
Even if United States dealers were willing to market oil, these sources said, they might find it difficult as Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries own a majority of the world's tankers.

ABOVE: Scene in one of our banana ripening rooms.

SINCE bananas were first introduced into the United States more than a hundred years ago, scientists have been seeking a method for artificially ripening the fruit to bring out the true tree-ripened color, flavor and texture. Only recently, with the perfection of air-conditioning and thermodynamic control, has it been possible to produce scientifically matured perfect fruit.

In our Los Angeles warehouse, we have just completed the installation of the most modern equipment in operation on the Pacific Coast for handling the tropical fruit. Into each of the banana rooms in the new plant can be introduced moist or dry air, at the exact temperature required to duplicate tropical days and nights. This equipment, under expert control, provides our stores with the finest bananas you can buy—large, golden-ripe, smooth textured, delicious fruit. Scheduled delivery brings them to our store in your community, where you can buy them at no higher price than you would be asked to pay for ordinary fruit elsewhere.

For this week's sale, we have ripened to perfection eleven whole carloads of bananas. Buy a supply at one of our stores this week. Discover for yourself the big difference in bananas.

GAINS SHOWN BY AIRCRAFT ISSUES

Stock Trading Fast At Opening; Profiteers Cut Down Margins

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Wall Street was less inflation minded today and the majority of stocks backed and filled in a rather nervous market.

Fast buying of mining issues was resumed at the opening, and the ticker tape, for awhile, was unable to keep pace with floor transactions. Profit taking after the last two surging sessions, quickly whittled down prices and the metal group shaded or cancelled its advances. The activity turned quiet.

Airplane equities, led by Douglas with a spurt of about 3 points to a new high, were again favorites. Boeing, United, Curtiss, Wright "A" and Sperry edged up fractions to a point. Improvement was also shown by Westinghouse, American Radiator, General Motors, Phelps Dodge, Dome, Silver King, U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Du Pont, Schenley, Montgomery Ward, and General Electric. The utilities, rails, steels and motors were backward.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. (AP)—Uncertainty which of late have held grain trading to small proportions hampered new price upticks today, and led to final net losses in wheat.

The fact that European buying of Canadian continued to be virtually on a hand-to-mouth basis served in particular to check ardor of bulls. Predictions were heard that crops of spring, should they follow an abundant crop of winter wheat, would lift the 1936 production on this continent to a total volume in the neighborhood of 1,200,000,000 bushels.

Wheat, the same as yesterday's finish to 3c lower, May $1.00-1.01; corn 1/2c up to 1/4c up. May 60c; oats 1/2c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down. Closing prices:

FORMER SANTA ANAN CONVICTED OF FRAUD
Rodney E. Shelly, former resident of Santa Ana, was found guilty in the Santa Ana justice court yesterday of defrauding an apartment hotel owner. The complaining witness was Mrs. E. M. Wilson, owner of the De Luxe Apartments, Santa Ana.

Deputy District Attorney Clarence Sprague, prosecuting the case, charged that the defendant had resided in the apartment hotel for several months and had left owing the owner $319.65. Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison set Feb. 1 as time for pronouncement of judgment, and the defendant was released on his own recognizance.

AVOCADO MEN SET A GOAL FOR 1936

CARL V. NEWMAN

Avocado growers of California have set themselves a high goal for 1936. They hope to maintain prices at present levels through the peak month of March and, if possible, to secure as much in total returns for this year's crop as was received for the record size 1935 crop. This announcement came today from the Calavo Growers organization, of which Carl V. Newman, Tustin, recently was re-elected president. He has held the post since 1925.

The present year's production is expected to be about one-half that of 1935. Although this year's output is twice as large as for any year up to 1935, returns for the second marketing pool averaged the highest since September, 1932.

Growth of the industry has been due largely to increased knowledge and demand brought about by the cooperative through advertising and expansion of distribution, the announcement said.

When founded in 1924 the organization handled 124,000 pounds of fruit. Last year the amount handled was 13,300,000 pounds.

There were 100 growers in the organization in 1924. There are 1800 commercial producers today.

In addition to re-election of Mr. Newman, the growers recently elected the following directors for the coming year: Fred J. Hansen, La Mesa; Frank J. Gilson, Del Mar; Richard Rees, Escondido; J. S. Sayre, Vista; J. H. Hutchison, Vista; C. V. Newman, Tustin; R. H. Marsh, La Habra; Charles L. Lewis, North Whittier; James D. Hoffman, Pasadena; E. E. Needham, Glendora; J. N. Thille, Santa Paula; George R. Bliss, Carpinteria. Directors-at-large, elected for 1936 by the above district directors, are Dr. J. Eliot Coit, Vista; Edwin G. Hart, La Habra Heights; and W. E. Spencer, Whittier.

History turned a page at installation rites of Torosa Rebekah lodge Wednesday night when Mrs. Martha Van de Walker presented the past noble grand's pin of office to her daughter, Mrs. William Garvin. The event had double significance since less than two years ago Mrs. Van de Walker had initiated her daughter into the lodge.

Presiding at the installation were Blanche Chandler, district deputy president; Lucille Rathbone, deputy marshal; Bessie H. Stovall, past district deputy president; and Inez Baker, past district deputy marshal.

Honored guests, following the rites, were Fannie M. Lacy, Santa Ana, and Amelia Osterlag, Los Angeles, past presidents of Rebekah assembly; H. P. Van de Walker, district deputy grand master of I. O. O. F.; and Mrs. Chandler.

Officers installed included Gladys Garvin, junior past noble grand; Ethel Brown, vice-grand; Martha Van de Walker, recording secretary; Blanche Chandler, financial secretary; Emma Cochem, treasurer; Laura Tramel, warden; Maude Lentz, conductor; Grace Gross, musician; Fannie M. Lacy, chaplain; Leota Allen, R. S. N. G.; Edna Kinsella, L. S. N. G.; Ada Spencer, R. S. V. G.; Lucille Rathbone, L. S. V. G.; Laura Kesemann, inside guardian; Maude Swartout, outside guardian; Zada Pankov, right altar supporter; Nannie Myers, left altar supporter; and Herbert Allen, drill captain.

Committees appointed by the noble grand included: finance, Herbert Allen, Laura Kesemann and Nannie Myers; resolutions, Mary Cooper, Mary Kuhl and Mary Herter; examining, Gladys Garvin, Edna Kinsella and Joan Tremble; reception, Fannie M. Lacy, Laura Kesemann, Leota Allen and Edna Kinsella; flowers, Nannie Myers, Ada Spencer; press, Gladys Garvin; trustees, Mary Kuhl, Ollie House and Allie Ward; robe custodian, Lottie Lyman.

Mrs. Lentz presented a set of pottery to Mrs. Garvin for her staff of officers and friends. A bridge lamp was presented as a wedding gift to Mrs. Gordon Cudworth, who was married Jan. 11. All retiring officers were presented tokens from Mrs. Garvin.

DRAWINGS IN STORES END NEXT WEEK

The lid was virtually clamped down on public drawings in Santa Ana grocery stores today.

But it isn't stores tight yet. Representatives of three local stores met today in the office of City Attorney L. W. Blodgett and entered a tentative agreement to let the drawings do a graceful fadeout act next week. Theaters which conduct bank nights were not parties to the agreement.

The three stores agreed that each will conduct one more drawing on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. The agreement was tentative, however, because the representative of the Grand Central market wished to place it before the various dealers in the market for final ratification. Mr. Blodgett said after the conference.

Today's meeting followed step toward adoption of an ordinance prohibiting public drawings, taken by the city council Monday night. The ordinance was passed for second reading and scheduled for final action next Monday night.

Included in the group at today's meeting were A. W. Gerrard of the Alpha Beta Markets, R. Y. De Britton of the Empire Market, Ray McIntosh of McIntosh's Meat Market in the Empire Market Building, Henry Schmidt of Schmidt's Market, and A. N. Zern, representing the Grand Central Market.

C. R. SACKERSON ELECTED HEAD OF STORE EMPLOYEES

Officers were elected at last night's dinner meeting of the Safe-guard Employees' Association at the city hall.

C. R. Sackerson, Santa Ana, was named president; J. B. Howard, Downey, vice-president; A. B. Mulder, Santa Ana, secretary; R. J. Tanner, Santa Ana, and L. C. Herron, Anaheim, dispersing committee; H. W. Clark, and Bill Kirby, Santa Ana, and C. S. Lee, Brea, social committee.

O. L. Stone of the Oakland office, in charge of organization work, was the featured speaker. Charles Welton, Los Angeles, divisional secretary for Southern California, also talked.

TO GIVE MUSICAL Santa Ana High School Girls' Glee club will give a musical Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the high school cafeteria.

Mary Batten Steffensen, director, has invited anyone interested to be present.

New Deal-Liberty League Row Warm; Al Smith's Aides Called 'Leeches, Rascals'

By EDWARD J. DUFFY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Hostilities between the New Deal and the American Liberty League intensified today on the eve of an Alfred E. Smith speech which is expected to give at least a broad hint as to Smith's role in the presidential campaign.

Will Smith wage war to the hilt on the administration, or will he adopt a policy of frigid silence with regard to the drive to re-elect President Roosevelt? Politicians believe the answer may be indicated in the address the former New York governor will make to a Liberty League dinner here tomorrow night.

Two Singled Out Even before the dinner, New Dealers began to hammer at its leading backers. Using words seldom invoked in the senate, Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) declared yesterday that Smith, as a charter member of the league, was surrounded by "leeches, crooks, leeches and bloodsuckers."

Conjecture about Smith's intentions revolved today around four principal questions: Will he undertake to capture the Philadelphia convention? That idea discarded, will he cooperate with a third party movement or independent tickets in key states? Will

DAVIS NAMED TO ATTEND FUNERAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—President Roosevelt has designated Norman Davis, ambassador-at-large and head of the naval delegation to the London conference, to be a special representative of the United States at the funeral of King George V on Tuesday.

The President also designated Capt. Walter S. Anderson, senior naval attaché at London, and Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Lee, senior military attaché, to serve as aides to Davis.

Ambassador Robert W. Bingham is now on his way to this country. Because of time it was impossible for the President to send special representatives across the Atlantic.

Theosophist Will Give Free Talks

Five different kinds of mental healing will be described Sunday at 8 p. m. at 620 Spurgeon street, by Elaine Scribner of Philadelphia, theosophical lecturer, who will also discuss various other forms of mental power, including thought transference in a lecture on "Mental Healing and Thought Radio."

This is the first of a series of five lectures to be given on successive Sunday evenings by Miss Scribner, who is a graduate of Smith college and the Chicago Training School for Home and Foreign Missions and who has been lecturing on theosophy in all parts of the United States and Canada for 14 years.

Titles and dates of other lectures are as follows: Feb. 2—"Attainment Through Control of the Subconscious Mind;" Feb. 9—"What Happens After Death;" Feb. 16—"The Supermen Called Masters;" Feb. 23—"The Coming Again of Christ."

These lectures are free to the public, being sponsored by local theosophists.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

TOMORROW MORNING, Rep. Percy L. Gassaway (D-Okla.) and Dr. Francis E. Townsend will hold an informal debate on the Doctor's much discussed "Townsend Plan." The broadcast will originate in the studios of WJWS, Washington, D. C. (KHJ, 11).

OUTSTANDING TONIGHT is "Hollywood Hotel"—at least it appears so on paper. Sally Eilers, James Dunn and Patsy Kelly are the visiting movie stars.

The first half of the hour will find Dick Powell and his brood not in the Orchid room but on the sandy beach of Malibu. A Little Hawaiian music please. (KHJ, 6).

WHILE THE POWELL cast are drenching the airwaves with island music, Al Pearce will be celebrating his 2500th broadcast KFI, 6.

Pearce has been on the air for more than seven years, starting with the old Happy-Go-Lucky and Blue Monday Jamboree programs in San Francisco.

Then he was a broke real estate salesman; today there's plenty of shekels in the Pearce coffers.

"AIDA" is the Metropolitan Opera tomorrow. The Verdi masterpiece replaces Puccini's "La Rondine," previously announced for this date. (KFI, KECA, 10:55).

Elizabeth Rethberg, John Charles Thomas, Frederick Jagel and Chase Baranco are the stars. Ettore Panizza conducts.

DANCING DOLLARS

FROM the interest already shown it is evident that the third annual President's Birthday Ball in Santa Ana on Jan. 30 will be the biggest and best of all.

And it should be, because there can no longer be any question about the worthiness of the purpose or the good that is accomplished by the money raised. The first ball was experimental, the second ironed out some of the difficulties, the third proceeds with complete understanding. In three years the event has become the nation's most charitable undertaking.

The fact that this is a presidential campaign year should have no influence whatever on the public attitude toward the ball. Regardless of his qualifications for re-election, Franklin D. Roosevelt is the symbol of what can be done by correct treatment of the disease of infantile paralysis. He is the nation's foremost crusader for making such treatment available to all sufferers of the malady, no matter in what part of the country they may live, and for searching for its causes in order to stamp it out entirely. What citizens, be they political friends or foes of PRESIDENT Franklin D. Roosevelt, can find fault with the purpose of this movement headed by CITIZEN Franklin D. Roosevelt?

Much needs yet to be learned about this dread disease. Hospitals need to be fully equipped to combat it. Research and equipment take money, quantities of it. The sole purpose of the President's Birthday Ball is to raise money for these two purposes. Seventy per cent of the proceeds remains in the communities participating. The other 30 per cent goes to the endowment of the Warm Springs Foundation, center of the nation's organized attempt to banish the disease.

Neither sickly sentiment nor silly prejudice should influence anyone's attitude toward this magnificent enterprise.

The little sufferers everywhere endure their fate with brave smiles and pin their hopes upon the future. Just so should all the rest of us look upon this opportunity to help them as one inspiring gladness and as a party at which we can be confident of having the best time of the year.

Postmaster General Farley declares that "certain" newspapers aren't giving the New Deal a fair deal. Somebody should take Jim aside and tell him the facts of life as they relate to politics in a campaign year.

STREAMLINED TIME

FASTER, even faster, men whip their mechanical steeds along. Latest new effort to decrease the time of travel is the announcement that a new high speed train will make the run between Chicago and Denver one full business day faster than ever before.

The Diesel-driven streamlined train will cover the distance of 1039 miles in sixteen hours, a speed that would have been unbelievable a few years ago, but which now is taken as a matter of course.

So each passenger who rides that train will have one more day on his hands, to make use of as he will.

What will he do with it? If he turns it to some useful purpose; if he spends that time doing something that will benefit him, or his family, or his fellow men, that day will be worth while.

But if he fritters that added time away; if at the end of that day he or the world is no better off, then the millions the railroad company puts into its new train, and into preparing the road bed for it, have been wasted, as far as he is concerned.

Shorter hours of labor, and faster means of transportation—these are constantly putting into the hands of men and women more and more time which they may use as they see fit.

The choice is theirs; to use this time, or to waste it. To streamline, in the transportation world, means to make more efficient. The world will be better off when more people streamline their use of time!

There's this about Mussolini: Our politicians need a platform to stand on, but he just uses any old balcony.

LET'S KEEP OUR HEADS

HIGHLY interesting to the West is Japan's decision not to play any more at navy-limiting, but to make her own navy any size she likes. Frankly, there can be little criticism of this, although it might have made everyone feel more secure had the nations been able to get together and limit naval strength.

But in the end each nation must be its own judge of the size of its armed forces. Certainly, the United States would not be willing to allow foreign powers to say how many ships or guns she may have.

The Japanese decision probably will be used by scare-mongers and battleship salesmen to drive our country into a naval race. Of course, we can build more ships than Japan and build them faster, and perhaps operate them better. So if Japan wants the world's biggest navy she is licked before she starts. Not being dumb, she probably knows that, too.

The probabilities are that Japan is going to be so busy tackling Japanese opinion against her militarists' present madness, and with subduing China and shaking fists at Russia, that she won't have time for anything else for some years. From our standpoint, that's all to the good. We are not looking for trouble—never were.

Main thing is not to be stampeded into some fantastic naval building race, just to augment makers' profits. Let us have the ships we need, and stop there. We're far enough in debt as it is. So, for that matter, is Japan.

Thoughts while strolling: Swell for a cussless expletive: Dashiell Hammett; And a grand description of Joe Louis by Bill Corum: "Fighting is the only gag he knows." Burns Mantle has the innocent expression of a school boy. After 20 years first nighting, too.

A turner of heads on the avenue: Larry Tibbitt. Story going around: Will Rogers refused $50,000 to endorse a certain chewing gum. It was the one brand he didn't like. Lenox Lohr, new N. B. C. head, is a ringer for Leon Errol. What became of the Normandie? Study in stateliness: Constance Collier.

Radio voices that seem tired: Bing Crosby's and Martin Downey's. For the Look the Same 15 Years Ago club: George Jean Nathan. Among minor arts: The breast pocket handkerchief display by Billy Gaxton. Walter Lippmann writes a column when he feels like it. And generally rings the bell.

Add apple checkers: Arthur Hopkins, Joe Beckley and Percy Hammond. Not many women speak their mind so capably as Dorothy Thompson. Glory hole for autographists: Lindy's. Only thing in New York that hasn't changed in my time: Hotel Lafayette. Naivete: Martha Dean often blushes, broadcasting.

High hat of the dead pans: Cardini. Pleasantly named peak: Brandywine Summit, Pa. Memory: Grandma's yearly visitor from New York, the frock-coated traveling optician. And peering at me with the hired girl down the kitchen. Be fun to see Robert E. Sherwood in Scotch kilts.

One of the now lonely survivors points to the Grim Reaper's devastating sweep of the old Evening World staff, the liveliest in town, during the years 1917-18. The departed are: E. C. Chapin, J. H. Tennant, Gene Bertrand, Nikola Greeley-Smith, Lindsay Dennis, Bozeman Euler, Jack Goldfarb, Wurra Wurra McLaughlin, Ernest Bondington, Harry Hazlewood, Frank Marney, Will Van Benthuyse, Charlie Somerville, Arthur W. Clark, Johnny Pollock, Remsen Crawford and Joe Jordan.

Another survivor of that illustrious staff is Albert Payson Terhune, the strapping six footer, who in his day probably turned out more newspaper and magazine stuff in a given time than any one before or since. Some weeks 60,000 words. He worked so furiously, one arm became useless. His now famous dog stories resulted from an evening of chacha around the open fire at his Pompton Lakes, N. J., home. Ray Long, then editor of the Red Book, was there and Terhune began to spin romances of colliers he was raising. When he finished, Long said: "Why don't you write some of those, Bert?" And he did.

There was a legend that a newspaperman, if he applied to the city editor, Charles Chapin, when he arrived at the Evening World at 6 a. m., was fairly sure of landing a job. During a workweek stretch I was there at 5:30 awaiting him in the outer hall. He was widely three-sheeted as an ogre who fairly gulped cubs raw, but my bride had spent most of the night in prayer and I was desperate. So I tackled him. "You've heard that early bird catches the worm, gag about me, too?" he inquired. "I confessed I had. He didn't give me a job. It was July and they were laying men off, he said. But he showed no gruffness. Perhaps because my voice trembled and I fluted upakes. He was quite sympathetic. In a scribble book he wrote me a letter from his Sing Sing cell. I had gotten on a bit and, remembering my appeal, he clipped one of my columns across which he wrote: "Perhaps it was better I could not give you that job, after all."

I barged into that O. O. so spiffy pajama salon in ash gray and, ver, that caters to such spruce-uppers as Tony Biddle, Tullio Carminati and William Rhineland Stewart today. One of the models was a crepe silk of coral pink purpled and sashed in black. And there were bedroom slippers lined with dyed pink rabbit fur. Complete with monogram $95 sales tax. I tried to appear interested, but I know I could never sleep in that outfit. I'd want to sit up all night and look at myself in a mirror.

But high in shopping for sleeping garments is attained in the robe de nuit department—or rayon I think they call it—in the Galeries Lafayette. I went on a bust there one spring and came away with a whisker bag for S. S. Van Dine, mustache curlers for Roy Howard, an old-fashioned nightshirt with stiff bosom for Irving Cobb, a rubberized snore stopper for Bob Davis and a set of slumber mittens, roughly palmed for scratching, for George Buckley. Just a card!

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The threatening shadow of the U. S. Supreme court is causing wheels to turn in far corners.

A few weeks ago, old guard craft-union leaders of the A. F. of L. were planning an uncompromising fight against insurgent industrial unionists. Preparations had gone so far that secret steps already were under way to expel the revolting chiefs.

But all that now has been forgotten. With the prospect almost certain that the supreme court will junk the Wagner labor disputes act and other labor measures, the A. F. of L. moguls are looking for no family fights. The ominous danger of losing the great legislative gains they have made in the last few years leaves them with no stomachs for internal warring.

The old guard leaders realize the vital necessity of a united front, are making secret peace overtures to the industrial unionists. President Bill Green has quietly opened negotiations with John L. Lewis, mine chief and leader of the insurgents, looking to a healing of the rift that has threatened to split the A. F. of L. wide open. As a peace gesture, Green has proposed that the industrial unionists have a free hand in organizing the auto, steel and rubber industries.

NOTE: The craft leaders have tried for 10 years to unionize these fields, have got nowhere.

LARGE FAMILY. Colleagues who accompanied Jack Garner to the Far East are telling the following story of the vice president:

In Shanghai the congressional party was invited to a banquet by the leading Chinese business man, a British subject who had been knighted by King George. Before they sat down to dinner, the American guests met his 10 children.

The banquet was laid in an elaborate garden. There were five tables. Presiding over each was a charming Chinese woman—one of the wives of the host and also a mother of one or more of his children.

Most of the American visitors, including Mrs. Garner, had been told about their host's marital arrangements. But Jack had not. As ranking guests he and Mrs. Garner sat at the table of their host, who was accompanied by his No. 1 wife. During the course of the dinner Jack complimented his hostess on her beautiful home.

"I also want to congratulate you on your large family of fine children. In America, I am sorry to say, we no longer have large families. When I was a boy, however, I knew a number of mothers of 10 children."

Mrs. Garner swallowed hard, hastily changed the subject. Later she told Jack that his habit of kissing babies from the rear platform of a campaign train was not always adaptable to the Far East.

What Other Editors Say

STILL PECKING AT ITS SHELL

(From Christian Science Monitor)

Aviation is hard on optimists and pessimists in turn. If its achievements are startling, so are its failures. People still have reason to suspect that the commercial stake in long-distance flying has been driven too far beyond technological progress.

The day two airplanes passed serenely in mid-ocean, inaugurating transatlantic service between France and South America, the British Imperial Airways liner City of Khartoum crashed in the Mediterranean, killing 12 of her passengers and crew. The fact that the tragedy occurred under perfect flying conditions increases uncertainty enshrouding the cause.

Not so mysterious was the reason for the disaster that befell a Belgian air liner on the day plans for the opening of regular transatlantic mail and passenger air service between England and the United States were made public. Accumulation of ice coating on the wings—the thing that wrecked the Belgian plane, in which all on board perished—is one of the worst obstacles to transoceanic air service on direct high latitudes.

Safe and unlimited air travel may be inevitable as many already believe. But that attitude of itself will not hasten the day. Something more than blind optimism is needed to combine the unquestionable advantages of aviation with its many-sided safety requirements.

Nor is it altogether reasonable to justify one's confidence in aviation's possibilities by comparing its present reverses with the tragic beginnings of steam transportation. Aviation faces far more exacting obstacles to begin with in defying the law of gravity, fog, wind, ice and other forces of nature. Over-water flight presents still another engineering problem in adapting a vehicle to two opposite elements—one that is light enough to fly and stand enough to alight on the sea. What is more, it is a rough sea for the flying boat of today. The successful start of transatlantic air service proves how far this phase of aviation has come. But it is well to realize that aviation has much farther to go.

There is a tendency to discount disasters resulting from experimental flight as the price of progress. During 1935, there were more commercial crashes than experimental mishaps. Granting that aeronautical improvements can only be achieved by trial and possible intermittent failure, public carriers should not be subjected to this toll.

Technological exploration should precede commercial exploitation. Do the costly setbacks sustained by air transportation within the last few years signify that commercial aviation holds a too-extended position in relation to its essential parallel of mechanical safety? Recent mishaps stress the need for seriously examining this point.

Remarkable Remarks

Newspapermen are not propagandists and they are not crusaders. They are tomorrow's evidence that life was here. Edgar E. Robinson, Stanford University.

If the Republican party will look the situation squarely in the face, get together, and put its best foot forward, it can beat the Democrats. If it does not '36 will be 32 over again.—Ex-Gov. Pinchot, Pennsylvania.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Illiteracy and Press Suppression Hand in Hand

THERE is direct relationship between a government and the amount of newspaper consumed. This country uses more wood pulp for newspapers than all the rest of the world combined. The per capita amount, however, is a little higher in England, 37.5 pounds in 1934. In Germany it was 11.6 pounds and in Italy, 3.6 pounds. Russia trailed along with 2.4 pounds per person. Illiteracy in Germany is less than in England, but the English consume nearly five times as much newspaper per person as do the Germans.

Among free peoples the news channels are free and people read. Newspapers abound everywhere. Where no such freedom exists, where official censorship rules and only inspired governmental copy appears, the people don't read. They won't read the stuff prepared for them. Lincoln's aphorism about fooling the people applies in this matter. Prediction may safely be made that illiteracy will mount rapidly in all those countries where freedom of the press is stifled.

Something new under the sun would be a dictator who encouraged rather than suppressed free interchange of thought. Of course, in that case he would not be a dictator. A free people must jealously resist the slightest encroachment on its right of expression. All the abuses coming from such freedom are as nothing compared with the deadening loss which its suppression would entail. And the charge that the press is controlled by selfish interest for greedy purposes should be taken with considerable salt.

Congress has appropriated some twenty millions for its own operating costs during the ensuing year. The house requires about eight million, for salaries, expenses and incidentals. Running the chambers and offices calls for more millions. Maybe shutting up the place for a year would work no hardship and would save considerable money.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

Friendly encounter with Professor W. M. Clayton, who disturbs my mathematical calculations. W. M. resides at 1315 North Main street, and these vigorous mornings, with the zip in the ozone, the walking distance to the High School is something like 22 blocks. In the evening at the close of a strenuous day, and especially when the temperature has been in the ascendancy, the professor says the same distance is 44 blocks. You get the answer by the way you feel.

It finally happened. Hell froze over. I've just got to believe it because it is in our paper. The streets were ice bound. Hell is in Michigan. So is Detroit.

George Raymer invites me to attend a meeting of the Associated Chamber of Commerce on the evening of Jan. 28, and offers such a tempting prelude that I'm about to fall for that invitation. And the finale isn't bad, when George offers this recession: "Yours until the depression is snugly hibernating on the island of Galapagos." Now I know why a chamber of commerce secretary.

Sometimes a misdemeanor or a felony is a contributory cause to some other fellow's motivation. Met a friend who said he would take me down town. He explained he had to go to the bank as he had been slipped a no-fund check and he wanted to see about it. So the fellow without funds was responsible for getting me a ride down town, but I wouldn't advise him to keep it up. I would much rather walk, because the habit of writing checks when you haven't any money in the bank will sooner or later get you to a place where you can't write checks.

I've just about made up my mind to buy one of those coats pinched in with a belt so I'll know I'm there. Sometimes when the wind starts to blow I'm in doubt.

Sam Sampson, who manages the Orange County Athletic club when the audience does not take charge, has oft intimated my presence at this resort where they try to tear your arms out by the roots, and bust your head on a mat, but he failed to invite me on the night when the wrestling became general. And I want to thank him for it. With this single exception the control has been excellent. And had I been there what could I have done to prevent the disturbance? So far no complaint from the audience has come to me. The patrons got more for their money than they expected.

Jim Welch and Ed Yost delayed me to venture the information that they now occupied a remodeled, renovated, and re-equipped office at 103 East Third street, and were going to buy baby bones and build skyscrapers, and underwrite promotions far beyond the most expansive dreams of mankind. When I got their feet on the ground it revealed the office had been nicely decorated, new desks installed, and I would be welcome. That's what I call hitting the high and low spots.

After listening to remarks by Herbert Rankin I've decided to send his name to the Republican national committee speakers bureau.

Speaking about water. Since the defeat of the bodacious historical information has been offered than this column can take. Mostly dealing with the last flood, the ones preceding the last, large ones, small ones, intermediate and indifferent. Just get into a group of old-timers and venture a year when the worst flood visited the county, and you'll get more argument than you could out of the League of Nations. And after the argument is over and the referee turns in a "no decision," you are still where you started from so far as this season is concerned—no rain.

Tried to contact Art Cannon at the Breakfast Club Thursday morning, but there was no explosion. There must be some reason why a piano player cannot get from Orange to Santa Ana, a three-mile jaunt, in time to play the Star Spangled Banner. Do you attend it because you couldn't sing it?

If they do not change the location of the American Legion hall by next Saturday night, I'll find the place. There's to be a hot time in the old town that night—at least the hell change is being advertised as a Burns banquet. The Burns Society of Orange County is going to have some help, too, as the Orange County Post, Canadian Legion is to co-operate. Walter Young thought I should attend. Maybe he'll change his mind if I do. But that's his risk. He asked for it. It's the time when the Scotchmen take a fling at entertaining, and introduce the Scottish poet's contributions for the purpose of revivifying his memory and entrenching his satire. Where Burns' plow failed his pen succeeded.
